SURVEYING THE YEAR

On the calendar the year was only a set of numerals—1946-47. To us it was ten months of work and play, of doing and learning, of failing sometimes but usually succeeding. As the seasons changed the campus, experience changed us.

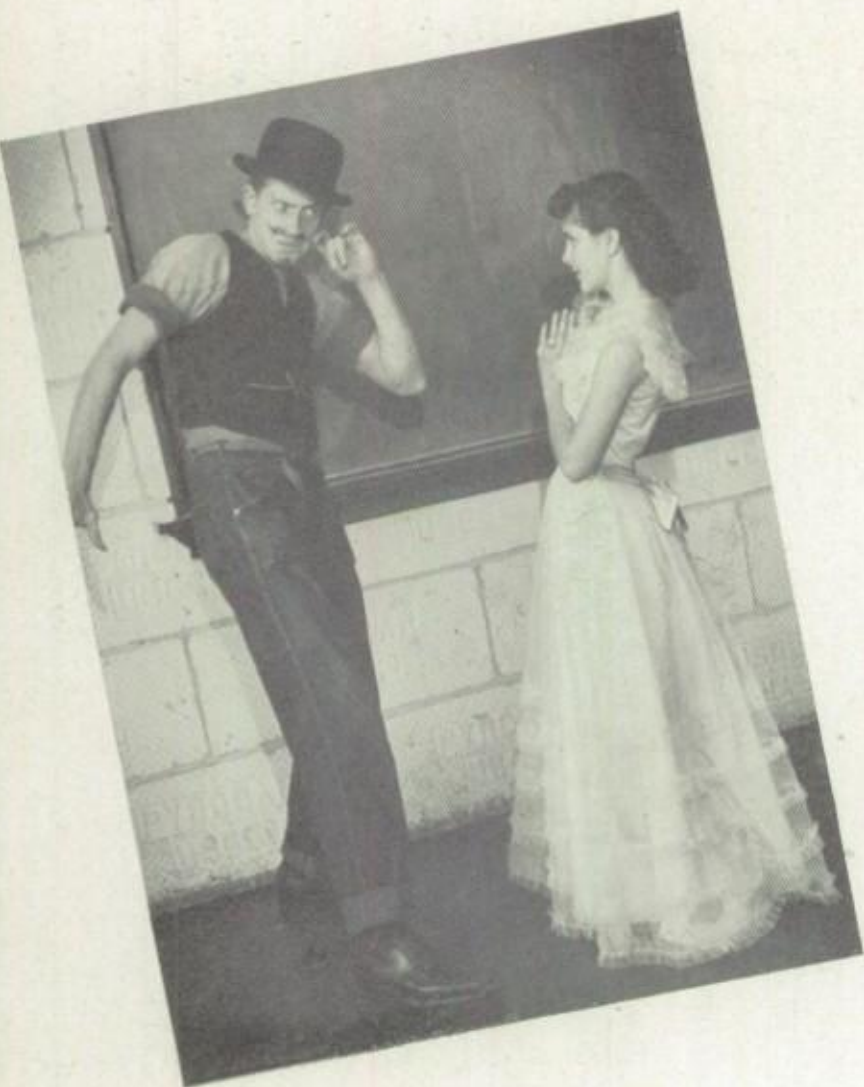

We were an active lot. All year long we threw every trick in the book at our friends and teachers, and on Class Day we finally threw the book, feeling sure we knew almost everything that was in it. It was a memorable year. These pages record it all for us.

Many of the snapshots in our memories we have caught on film for these pages. Others we have recorded in writing. Agree with us—1946-47 was a memorable year.

Book I

Ah ha, me proud beauty! Board the S. S. Normandy leaving at 15:15 hours. Check your school books and pass to the first deck for our show. The mighty extravaganza, "School Life at Normandy," will pass before your eyes to thrill you again and again and again. Hurry, hurry, hurry!

SCHOOL LIFE

MELLOW DRAMA

Romping in the leaves, students welcome the crisp autumn weather.

Fall's Bright Blue Weather

Dear Diary:

September 3 may have been the day after Labor day to some people, but to our Normandy gang it was just the beginning of the old grind. Confusion was king until we got into the swing of things again and the new faces began to blend into our school life pattern. Soon Mr. Blitz, Miss Shipman, Mr. Wright, Knute Lorenz, Doris Andrews, Eleanor Lovelace and Norman Bartlet seemed like old friends.

When bruised knees and shins became a common sight on the campus, we knew that school had really begun because football and hockey were back.

Addressing the throng below, candidates for Senior office outline platforms and solicit votes from balcony of the main building.

Fun and Frolic

Hi-Y opened the social season with the Get-Acquainted Dance. Following this grand opening came the Harvest Dance. Highlight of the evening was the coronation of "the most beautiful baby," Joan Painter, escorted by Dale "Ox" Portman.

Meanwhile a big assembly had launched the Activity Drive, and once again we went over the top for a half-day holiday.

Class spirit really came to the front during Senior elections. Strange sights seen around here during campaign week included a speech from the old senior balcony, parades between classes and a street dance. Lyrics of "Bottle Burper is the Vote for You" were echoed from the hoary walls almost as often as "Open the Door, Richard!"

New addition this year to the list of Dogpatchers who pay us an annual visit at the Backward Dance was the wolf gal. Tom Holstein was chosen Normandy's Li'l Abner and received his crown of lollipops from Ed Wilson.

Then the presentation of the operetta, "Gallopig Ghost," starring Jim McGee, Lois Stegg, Don Sitter, and Sally Dillard, brought the Junior high school into the limelight on November 14. To finish the season off just right the all-school play, "Out of the Frying Pan," was produced as scheduled by Miss Grammaticoff. A romantic comedy, it was rated one of the best ever produced for Normandy. With Marilyn Vogt, Bob Holthaus, Bob Smith, M.C., and Betty Zumbuhl, how could it be anything but the best?

Winds Blow

1947 didn't bring many changes to the hoary walls, but with the turn of the year exams began to loom in the foreground. Where you used to see lounging loafers you now saw cramming hopefuls. Then the fatal day arrived and all about were signs of stress, strain and hopelessness. Apparently everyone recovered, and life soon returned to normal.

Normandy settled down to fun and frolic. Every fellow brought his favorite "Sugar Plum" to the first formal dance of the year. The crowning event of the evening was the coronation of the Sugar Plum Queen of 1947, Peggy Schaper.

Cupid's arrows must have hit most every fellow because the Cupid Cuddle on February 15 was certainly crowded. Walking up to the strains of "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby" came Dewey Millay, campus cupid, escorting the Valentine Queen, Jeanne Schott.

Gee, the library was full of interesting displays that day of March 14 after the hobby show. There were hobbies in homerooms all week before the final day when winners were chosen. Jeannine Tree's varied collection of dolls, charms, trinkets and pennies was voted best exhibit, and winning hobbies went on display in the lobby for all of us to see.

Seeing someone singing as they went through the Junior High School hall was no rare occurrence this winter. It didn't mean they were bubbling over with mirth; it meant they had a star part in the talent show. There were vocal solos, dance routines, tumbling acts and instrumental numbers with Richard Gerichten, Shirley Hobein, Joan Carter and Joan Schildknecht as featured stars.

Then came the last big event of the winter season, with the advent of modern language week. Your best friend became almost a total stranger dressed as a Greek, Hungarian, Arabian, German or Frenchman. The juke box even lent to the atmosphere with its Spanish and German records. March 20 brought the big assembly program with its parade of nations, German music and romance and French cafe society.

That, dear Diary, ended the winter season here at Normandy. It was certainly a busy season with study, assemblies, games, dances and other fuss. Gosh, Diary, I hate to think how close the end of this year really is, but there is still lots of fun ahead before the last days.

Talent in the Junior school—tap dancing and doll making are representative of dozens of talents and hobbies.

Sun! Leisure on the campus! Spring is here!

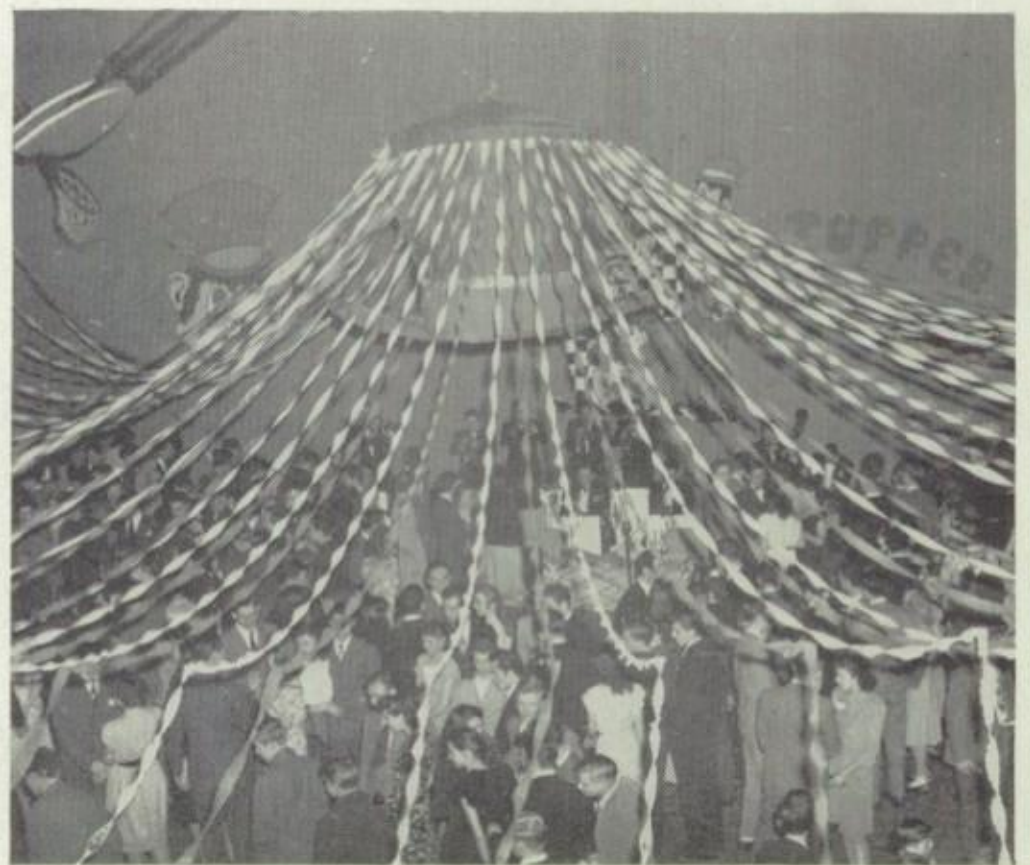

Arrival of Spring

Dear Diary:

Spring—I don't believe it! Gosh, it can't be true. For weeks we watched the busy bees in the Courier prepare for the first spring dance—the St. Pat's Topper. We doffed our hats to Ann Quermann our new 1947 St. Pat's Queen.

Easter came early this year with its flowers and streamers. And thank heaven! Spring weather came with it.

Waiting for the freight train to come in, Dale Heineck reigned over the Hi-Y's Hobo Hop. The minstrel show gave us a glimpse of the shanty town "set way back from the railroad track."

Shure, and we all cut shennanigans at the St. Pat's Dance.

Activities in Full Swing

I almost died laughing when Dave Fisher, the bashful suitor, fell down the steps at the feet of Marceline Williams and sister Ann Quermann in the Senior play, "My Sister Eileen," as Violet, the burlesque queen (Marilyn Heid) swung a wicked hip.

Mississippi life was featured in this year's May Fete. Lush costumes and talented dancers made this year's May Fete a howling success. The big event of the evening, or rather of the year, was the crowning of the 1947 Saga Queen—Jean Flori.

May 10th was out of this world to many juniors and seniors for it was the evening of the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme was "A Stairway to the Stars." It was excitement plus dancing to heavenly music.

Gosh, diary, today the seniors gave us our best assembly—Class Day. I thought I'd die when Holthaus went into his act and those cute little girls in their long curls and short dresses were darling, but the mock wedding took the cake.

Well, diary, this year is about to end and those who are returning seem especially happy about it. The seniors in caps and gowns received their diplomas on June 4th. Then the 9th graders left us on June 6th. The "hoary walls" seem kind of bare now, but next year they'll ring out again with the new classes and the new faces.

Standing united with the hope of One World at assembly during Modern Language Week.

One, two, three, kick! seems to be the cry of the conga line in "My Sister Eileen."

ON THE WHEEL

Touching up the wheels so they look ready to roll, three seventh grade students finish a mural depicting transportation development.

Beginning at the Bottom

"Normandy is a wonderful place," a seventh grade pupil recently said. "The teachers and students are all swell. Orientation Day last year really helped me get acquainted."

Let's travel around with a seventh grader and see how these youngsters spend their day.

For our first class we'll have mathematics.

Here we find ourselves struggling with problems which at times seem very much over our heads as we concentrate on learning percentages and interest, preparing for higher studies in math.

Leaving our feverish calculations, we travel to English class, where we enjoy reading

"I had an exultant sense of being bound for mysterious lands and distant climes which I have never felt in so uplifting a degree since."

prose and poetry, which gives us a useful background in literature. One important activity in this class is the learning of English construction and word usage, basis for our future writing and speaking.

Continuing in our day we stroll over to art class. Happily engrossed in painting and designing, we find ourselves enjoying the work while learning it. Posters, menus, nut cups and various drawings emerge from our daily class work.

Ready and Willing

Young shop worker concentrates on checking the temperature of his soldering iron by its color before using it on his class project.

Next we shall go to our science class. "What are ocean currents? What makes flowers grow?" We pepper the teacher with questions and are calmly referred to our textbooks and encyclopedias for answers to the many perplexing questions that arise.

Following science, let's go to social studies class, a very valuable seventh-grade subject. Not only do we learn about our own country, but also about the other countries of the world.

For our next class the boys and girls separate—the girls go to sewing and the boys to mechanics.

Gaily colored aprons, skirts, and blouses blossom forth out of the sewing rooms, as the girls, many for the first time in their lives, learn the practical art of sewing.

Vocational training is offered to the boys in the mechanics course. Sheet metal and wood-working prove fascinating to the boys as their clumsiness turns into dexterity.

Girls and boys rejoin each other for penmanship classes. Our scrawls and scribbles are firmly disciplined into legible characters anyone can read, and high time, too, if the comments on our written work are any indication.

gyms. Here boys and girls find relaxation in sports as clean playing and good sportsmanship are impressed upon us. The seventh grade can boast many potential athletic stars, among them Bill Barofalo, Johnny Lewis and Herb Vogler. Not to be outdone by the boys, girls have fine athletes among players on champion teams. Miss Madsen's champion homeroom basketball team was composed of Carol Sue Barner, Johanna Campbell, Jane Einspanier, June Larkin, Shirley Lewis and Mary Winer.

Wide-eyed Enthusiasts

"What electives are you taking for your fifth subject?"

"I think I'll take Junior Business so that I can learn how to pay bills and write checks. Never can tell. I might get my allowance upped any day."

"That's all right for you, but I'm planning to go to college so I'll probably take General Language. If I learn the groundwork, I'll know which language I'll want to major in: French, Latin, Spanish or German."

"Don't you think that Junior Speech would be more valuable?"

"Why?"

"Well, you'll learn to stand up and speak with poise, and if you're good, you'll be recommended for dramatics in Senior High."

"The big mate was at the wheel and he . . . was holding her straight up the middle of the river."

—Mark Twain.

Sounding Deeper Depths

These students are exploring. The eighth grade curriculum contains several of these exploratory courses designed to give pupils a taste of what lies ahead in Senior High. In choosing electives for the first time, eighth graders become more individualistic and begin to develop their own special talents in home economics, woodworking, speech, language, and other departments. These trail blazers will soon make their marks known at Normandy.

Pulling Together

Action without words! Junior speech students in pantomime exaggerate the procedures in dental office before an enthusiastic class. Note pliers.

So that no one will fail to have his name on the graduation list, eighth graders compile their credits before they enter the ninth grade. They study a list which shows them which subjects are required and the possible electives. By this system, they will know if they are short credits which may be made up before the time of graduation. Along with this list pupils receive suggestions as to studies they may follow through Senior High School, and they choose their curriculum—academic, general, scientific, or commercial, industrial art or diversified occupations.

Forging ahead in homeroom competition were the winners of the basketball tournament, Miss Deck's girls' basketball team and Miss Phelps' boys' basketball team. Karen Kuehner, Helen Bratton, Jean Thompson, Shirley Loddeke, Carol Benning, Robert Eckhardt, and Ron and Don Guariglia reached new heights in the sport world when they were named the most promising athletes in the class.

Proving their leadership in music, many eighth graders were accepted into the Senior Band and Orchestra, but Bob Edward, Dave Zumwalt, Shirley Bates, Richard Daugherty, Karen Kuehner and Ralph Steele were especially honored by being named the most promising in their class.

Ninth grade citizenship class adjourns to the library to do research on the functions of their government.

Onward to Senior High

Leaving their junior building comrades, ninth graders grow up through their summer vacation and come over on the senior high side of the campus, even though ninth grade graduation won't be until June.

While they are not able to be in the Orchestras, they try out for dance classes and train for the day that they may get into this select group. The ninth grade is also active in sports. Going all out to try for hockey, basketball, volleyball and baseball, ninth graders give real competition to upper classmen. Dorothy Bett, an outstanding ninth grader, made the Varsity hockey team. make their mark in sports were Shirley Hibbs and Dorothy Meek. Competing for the basketball and volleyball championship, ninth grade homeroom teams organized and played other homerooms of their grade.

Taking a place in the music theater, the ninth grade boasts both a Glee Club and Mixed Chorus. Chorus members give no programs during their first year, spend time developing voices for future participation in advanced singing groups.

Striving for Achievement

Combining studies with pleasure, this ninth grade English class goes into action performing a play taken from their book.

Along with many other thrills of entering the senior school, ninth graders can greatly widen their curriculum. If they plan to enter college, they choose an academic course, aided by ninth grade sponsors and other teachers, who advise them as to subjects that will be of most use later.

New to them this year, the study of citizenship helps ninth graders to become better citizens of the school and of the community. Students learn much of world affairs, as most classes study a weekly paper giving news of countries all over the world. One project of this year's citizenship class was a community survey in which important historical points were uncovered.

Other fields open to ninth graders are English, language, music, history and science. To extend their linguistic accomplishments, many students begin a foreign language in ninth grade, even though they do not plan to enter college, and may choose among Spanish, French, Latin and German.

As for activities, the ninth grade is never left out.

Forming their own Tri-Y this year, they chose Miss Sanders for their sponsor. Elected to head this club was Amzaetta Alsop, who was assisted by Ruth Nicolson, vice president, Laverne Theiss, secretary, and Peggy Peet, treasurer. This particular Tri-Y

Extending Their Knowledge

Peppy, popular, promising personalities make up this year's energetic sophomore class. Enthusiastic? Yes! You would be, too, with all of your classes opening entirely new and unexplored fields. Osmosis, axioms, postulates, puer, puella—doesn't that arouse your interest?

Plans for the courses were carefully constructed to build new knowledge and skill on foundations acquired in seventh, eighth and ninth grades. English is the only subject required of the tenth grader, who needs increased skill in reading, writing, speaking and listening. The rest of the tenth grade course is up to the individual student's choice.

One of the most popular electives is geometry. Students strive to prove Euclid's theorems and then to apply them in everyday situations. They must master the use of the protractor and compass and learn to visualize two-dimensional figures.

"Judgment is a matter of brains, and a man must start with a good stock of that article or he will never succeed as a pilot."

—Mark Twain.

Doing a First Class Job

For their physical education, tenth grade girls may enter modern dance classes. There are also gym classes for boys and girls.

No curriculum would be complete without a science course and biology is the choice of most tenth graders. It is not a specialized, but rather a general, course dealing with almost every phase of plant and animal life, and with the elements of the universe.

World history is a "must" for the tenth grader.

Personalized Learning

This course, starting in ancient times and winding up in the midst of present day history-making events, is as valuable as the language classes in promoting world understanding.

Successful leaders of the tenth grade class are: Ed Velton, president; Denny Gallagher, vice president; Deane Tinker, secretary; and Betty Bonney, treasurer.

In the popularity spotlight was Jeanne Schott, choice for Valentine's Queen at Saga's Cupid Cuddle, and Bonnie Franck and Betty Bonney, candidates for Harvest Queen. Greatest popularity honor was conferred on Jeanne Schott and Denny Gallagher, elected most popular boy and girl of their class to serve as attendants in the Saga Queen's Court.

The class was not lacking in dramatic ability, either. Jack Harkins and Wanda Koenig had parts in the all-school play and Alice Donahue joined them in participating in inter-school contests.

Sports got plenty of attention from these outstanding students: Eddie Velton, Denny Gallagher,

Advanced to Senior High Level

There's no hidden musical talent in the tenth grade, for it's quite well known that Jack Harkins does some marvelous things on a piano and that Joe Labuta is tops with a trumpet. Jim Baldwin can also beat out the boogie with great ease.

To be honest, this tenth grade class gave upper classmen keen competition in every department this year. The class of '49 will obviously be a humdinger in all departments. We expect to hear great things about them.

Still Looking Ahead

Looking forward to their title as seniors, the class of '47 has rigidly observed its class motto, "Honor Before Glory." Yet being juniors, many goals remain unreached: Will I make Honor Society? Will I make Quill and Scroll? Many problems remain unanswered: Where will I rank in my class?

What will I do after graduation? Do I have enough knowledge to hold a job? Mr. Serafini, as chairman of the Junior Sponsors along with the eleventh grade homeroom teachers, has given his valuable time to help answer these questions. Next year juniors will choose their last electives, credits will be counted, and those lucky ones will join the ranks on graduation day.

Taking advanced courses—plain geometry, advanced algebra and chemistry—these eleventh graders build a stronger foundation for their senior year and future college work. Advanced commercial courses and woodworking classes aid others in preparing for future jobs.

On the strength of their past records we expect winning teams next year, sparked by outstanding junior athletes: Bernie Waters, Dick Bokamper, Kenneth Lorenz, Ed Potter, Gene Swank, Don Hanners, Russell Rothwell, Jim Russell, and Don Keely. Honored was Gene Swank, football captain and Russell Rothwell, wrestling captain. Living up to his honor, Russell showed superior ability by placing second in state.

Presiding over the various junior committees, Dave Brandon, president, Dick Bokamper, vice president, Kenneth Lorenz, secretary, and Gene Swank, treasurer, assisted the eleventh grade in planning a memorable prom, a stroll on "Stairway to the Stars."

Winning all of their class games and placing many members on varsity teams, girls played an important part in sports events.

After proving themselves superior, all around students, Alfred Cook, Virginia Stewart, Lillian Bauman, Thomas Quick, Marjorie McGee, Barbara Goode, and August Geise took the pledge of Honor Society. Because they excelled in scholarship, citizenship, and activities, the class of '48 looks to these students to exercise leadership in their senior year.

County Orchestra. Al Cook, clarinetist, and Bill Major, French horn player, were also among eleventh grade musicians in All-County.

The social spotlight blazed on Peggy Schaper, who reigned as Sugar Plum Queen. Barbara Goode and Jeanne Dobbin were candidates for Harvest Queen and St. Pat's Queen, respectively.

In the popularity parade Barbara Goode and Dick Bokamper represented their class in the Viking Court.

Classes Were Fun

September and school welcomed this new crop of seniors and found old pals mingling with new ones. The first day of school perhaps confused the neophytes but proved just "old stuff" to the seniors. Senior English started right in and it wasn't long before Macbeth was recited in every corridor.

Foretasting what college will be like, Seniors ransack the library to obtain materials for their English research papers. Favorite subject—love affairs of great poets.

With the donning of caps and gowns, a sentimental streak sneaks into every senior. Reminiscing over their years of fun and fancy some can even remember their first day of seventh grade. Feeling older and more experienced, they recall with amusement their first frightened impression of Normandy's huge campus and throngs of strange people.

One of Bob Elliott's remarks about the Boxers amuses members of Mr. Bergmann's history class as they listen to a report on the Boxer Rebellion.

Outstanding Personalities

Typical senior spirit was renewed when seniors received their class rings and pins. True, many thinking of graduation would have loved to be in the shoes of any junior high guy or gal but having no Aladdin lamps around they looked anxiously ahead instead.

Finals were really a relief to the big whigs of Normandy. "Just think," remarked many with fiendish grins on their faces, "we don't have any more finals and you do." Juniors had a comeback—"Just wait 'till next year," but the 7th graders had nothing but five glorious years ahead of them.

Well, another June, another graduation; but this year's class has a lot to look forward to, as well as six years of pleasant memories to look back on.

Named outstanding athletes in their class are Ann Quermann, Bob Ries and Lois Diesel.

Standing: Darby, Watts, Zumbuhl, Thiele, Flori. Seated: DeBruner, Heid, Diesel, Kopplin, top-ranking seniors.

Friendly Faculty

Here's where we say things we couldn't say before without being accused of apple-polishing.

Faculty, a round of applause to you for the year's teaching. Think of all the knowledge you had in September that we didn't. In ten months' time we've absorbed a lot we can put to good use. Those papers you graded, your lectures, your demonstrations, and your determined efforts to draw out the best that was in us have already paid off and will continue to do so.

Outside of class, we have responded to your leadership in our club activities. We have consulted you about dozens of problems and found you ready with solutions. Many times you abdicated your teachers' platforms to be just one of us, and we liked that because it proved you meant what you taught us about Democracy.

We won't forget you. Keep up the good work with those who come after us.

Faculty mail box corner is crowded every morning as teachers gather letters and bulletins for the day.

Harmony on the faculty at the Christmas party: Mr. Guenther, Mr. Wright, Mr. Megahan, and Mr. Schrader give forth with Yuletide cheer.

Serious panel discussion led by Mr. Shouse at the October P-TA meeting concerned the future prospects of various sub-fields in the curriculum. Teachers participating were Mr. Doyle, Mr. Bergmann, Miss Strecker and Miss Buck.

Parents Cooperate

A new public address system went into the gym this year as a gift of the Parent-Teachers' Association and Normandy students attended an out-of-town speech tournament on funds provided by the PT-A.

Monthly meetings featured teacher-student interpretation of the school program for parent education. Student entertainment was also a feature of these meetings.

Mindful Mothers

Helping Normandy students behind the scenes as they always do, the Mother's Club rounded out another full year.

New blankets were given to the clinic this year. Mothers donated liberally to the student publications and the Normandy Music Association. The club assisted the Girl Scout troops and helped sponsor the Future Teachers of America. In return, students were glad to furnish entertainment at club meetings.

STANDING: Mrs. Shouse, Mrs. King, Mrs. Loddeke, Mrs. Hunt. SEATED: Mrs. Soer, Mrs. Duggan, Mrs. Schwab, Mrs. Port, Mrs. McDonald.

Motor Tuners

Always on schedule and carrying an impressive safety record, Normandy's orange and black buses shuttle twice daily throughout the large Normandy district, bringing students to school and returning them to their homes.

Unique among school transportation systems, Normandy's bus terminal and garage have been inspected and admired by many school transportation supervisors.

Kitchen Experts

Pleasant smiles from behind the counter and yummy foods laid out for purchase greet Normandy's hungry students every day in the modern cafeteria.

From 11:30 to 1:30 daily any pupil can secure a hot, well-balanced meal at low cost.

Cheerful Custodians

Constant campaigners for a clean and neat campus are the custodians.

Indoors, they see to it that we hold classes in rooms that are comfortably clean and warm. Directed by Mr. Talley, the custodians cheerfully assist with plays, dances, and other night-time activities, staying afterward to direct traffic and ready the buildings for the next day's classes.

Essential to a smooth-functioning school system, they deserve and we hereby give them our thanks.

Administrators Wor

Superintendent*

New to the administrative staff this year, Mr. Barnes assisted in the details of public relations work and in interpretation of tests and measurements.

MR. R. D. SHOUSE, M.A.

Principal, Normandy High School

Building and keeping Normandy a first rank high school has been Mr. Shouse's career for 24 years. He and his teachers have constantly developed new methods of successfully carrying on the education of Normandy's youth.

MR. H. L. GREEN, M.A.

Assistant Principal

Good friend to all students, helper to those with problems, is Mr. Green, head of the counseling staff as well as assistant principal.

MR. C. E. POTTER, M.A.

Administrator, Normandy Junior High School

Seeing that youngsters get a good start at Normandy High School is Mr. Potter's responsibility as junior high administrator, and all agree he does a superb job.

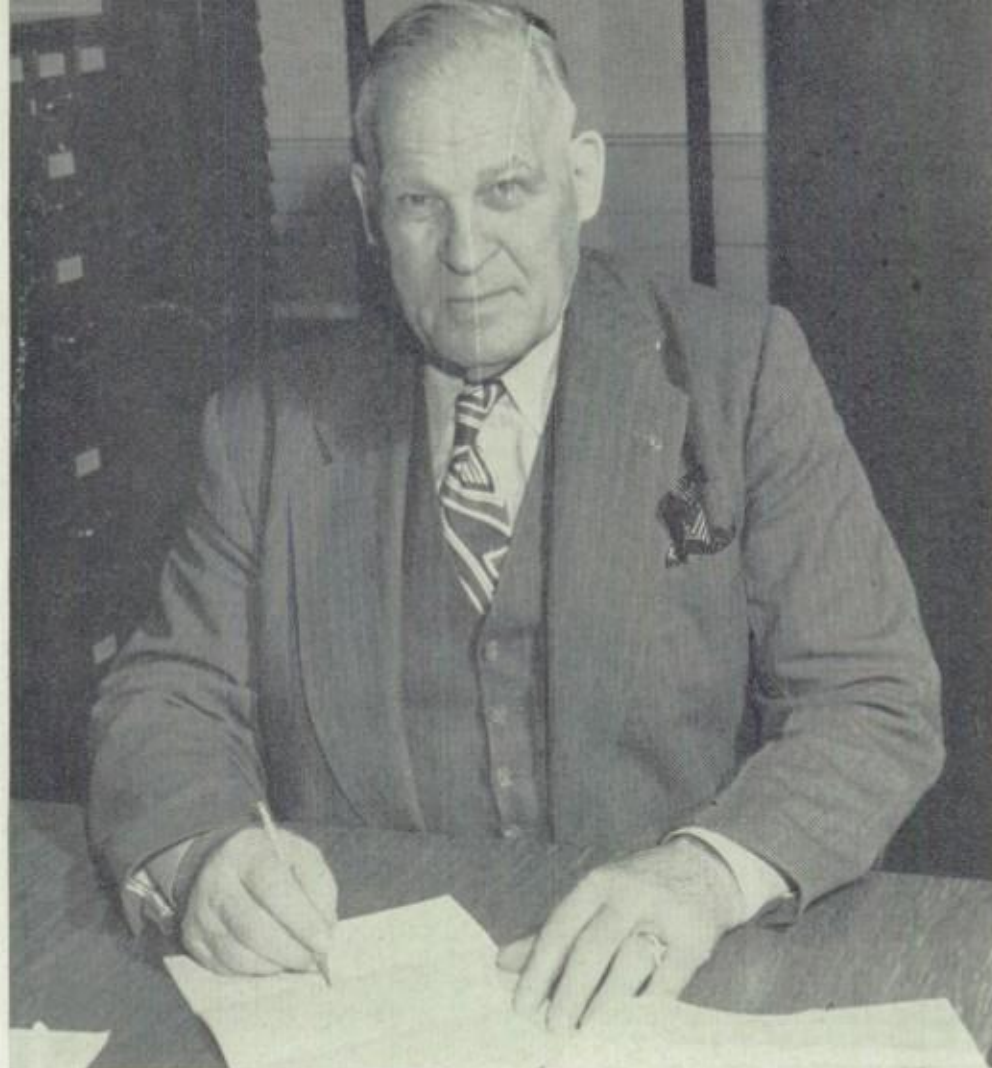

With School Board

School administration presented difficult problems in 1946-47.

Teacher shortage and pressure to raise salaries impelled the school board to ask voters for an increased tax levy to put into effect a new single salary schedule for teachers.

Successful in securing needed funds, the board established the new schedule immediately, retroactive to February 1 of this year.

Meeting monthly to discuss and solve school problems, board members and Mr. Fred B. Miller, Superintendent, cooperated to insure Normandy students the best in instruction and school plant facilities, and to maintain the high rating held by the Normandy school system.

MR. FRED B. MILLER, M.A.

NORMANDY 25—EDWARDSVILLE 0

Weight favored the Vikings in the season's opening game, but the Edwardsville eleven refused to lay down their arms until the final gun had sounded.

Early in the first quarter, quarterback Dave Klasing flipped a long, high pass into the hungry arms of halfback Don Tracy, who scampered the remaining 20 yards for 6 markers. Then a costly Edwardsville fumble, a plunge over the big white stripe by "Pinky" Ries and an extra point kicked by Dave Klasing quelled the visitors' first half attack.

Two more tallies by "Pinky" Ries, one in each of the remaining quarters, ended the scoring. Another football "Knute," this one Knute Lorenz, new Viking halfback from Flint, Michigan, sprinted a 50-yard drive, and a 30-yard runback of an in-

NORMANDY 7—CAPE GIRARDEAU CENTRAL 0

Eight days and 135 miles separated the first two grid contests, as Red and Green waved over Central High School in Cape Girardeau, Saturday, September 28.

Winning the coin toss, the Vikings received, and within five minutes were within 20 yards of the Tigers' end zone. Fate then turned for the Black and Gold and the latter recovered a fumble in the Viking backfield. The Tigers reeled off 20 yards on their first play, but a staunch Viking wall prevented more gains.

Fumbles were plentiful, but the half-time reading of the scoreboard read 0-0.

Coach Norman Dilley strove successfully to develop prospects for the Varsity, and meanwhile the "B" Vikings held up a .500 percentage, winning three and losing three.

Led by captain and halfback Ken Deuser, the inexperienced B-ers dropped their first two games to Soldan and Kirkwood before "finding themselves," and whipping Clayton, Webster and U. "B" cagers made their contribution to the trophy collection, winning second place in the annual Wellston B-team tournament.

Fighting all the way, the B-ers smashed Ritenour and Wellston before giving in to Maplewood, 43-34, in the finals. Coach Art Shipherd says their team play will prove valuable in forming a future Varsity.

B'ers Show Promise

Howard Paul tries a push shot as Klasing moves under the basket.

Gallagher, Braun, Heidenreich and Crawford take the first hurdle easily in track practice.

Lively Tracksters

With a duet of record breakers, Coach Mike Riegert's tracksters harmonized a winning tone in a season of stiff competition.

Clocked at 15.5 seconds, Ed Crawford lowered Jim Stege's 1939 school high hurdle record at the St. Joe Relays. Bob "Pinky" Ries, also at St. Joe, bested the school shot put record of 49 feet set by Dick Arens in 1941 with a heave of 52 feet 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches. The Vikings won the Relays with a 34 $\frac{5}{6}$ point total and carried home an addition to the trophy collection. Other placers were: Gordon Baxter, 1st, high jump; Bob Holthaus, 3rd, discus; Dewey Millay, 2nd, broad jump; Bert Heidenreich, 2nd, pole vault; Eugene Michell, tied 3rd, pole vault; Don Keely, 3rd, 220; and Ed Crawford, 2nd, low hurdles.

Rained out of an East St. Louis high and a C. B. C. dual meet, the cindermen grabbed a victory from Blewett, 126-81, in their only dual meet of the season.

Arm and shoulder muscles strain as Bokamper hurls the iron ball.

Hot on the Cinders

Chalking up 18 points, the Red and Green speedsters pulled in fourth place behind U. City, St. Louis U. High, and North Kansas City against eleven other class A schools in the State Indoor Meet at Columbia, Missouri.

Twenty-two and one-half points scored by the cindermen in the newly-revived Maplewood-Richmond Heights Relays were only enough to place second as U. City again topped the Vikings.

For the fourth consecutive year, the Red and Green speedsters copped second place in the annual U. City Invitational Meet and walked off with the guest trophy. The host team captured the winner's spot and Maplewood-Richmond Heights slid into third behind the Vikings. Outstanding in the team's showing was Coach Riegert's quartet of senior discus hurlers, which captured all four places in the event.

Richard Samel took firsts in both weight events in the Junior Division, Ed Crawford scampered to a first in the senior high hurdles, and Bob Ries won the senior shot put.

The ball is missing above because it was out over the center fielder's head as batter took this mighty swing and cameras clicked.

Rainy weather and a long basketball season prevented an early start for the veteran baseballers, but once started the diamondmen won seven straight before being halted by Ritenour, 2-0.

Coach Art Shipherd fielded an extremely experienced nine with an abundance of returning lettermen plus newcomers Knute Lorenz in the outfield and pitcher Don Boenker. Nine Vikings played on the American Legion state championship team last summer which added to the experience and ability of the Red and Green.

Don Boenker pitched a one-hitter against Clayton and Wally Pait and Harold Thies

as Vikings Play Ball

chipped in two and three hitters to lead the five-man pitching staff. The other two hurlers were Ted Likes and Fred Kruse.

Thriller of the season was the Vikings' extra inning victory over Webster, May 9, on the latter's field. Losing, 1-0, in the first of the seventh, Dick Schill rifled a single to right and tallied the tying run as "Big Train" Likes smashed a triple to right center. In the eighth, Harold Thies doubled, advanced to third on Knute Lorenz's bunt, and scored the winning run on a wild pitch. Harold Thies was the winning pitcher.

When the veteran squad of outfielders, Don Moore, Dick Schill and Dick Fulgham, infielders Ted Likes, Doug Finley, Don Tracy and Bob Ries, pitchers Wally Pait and Harold Thies, and catcher Ron Fischer leave the diamond, they leave a duty to Knute Lorenz, Dave Brandon, Richard Samel, Bernie Waters, Don Boenker, and Fred Kruse, the experienced backbone of next year's nine.

Looking pretty well satisfied with results, Howard Paul drives one straight down the fairway.

Viking golfers drove down the fairway in even strokes with opponents before Saga's deadline, winning two from Chaminade and Wellston and losing to University City and Webster Groves.

Coach John Krablin singles out from his enthusiastic golfers Howard Paul, Bob Holthaus, Ken Korde and Dewey Millay as the team's sparkplugs. Other potential "Byron Nelsons" of the squad are Dick Ruhland, George Quelch, Bob Bach, Dale Heineck, Bob Smith and Jim Wooldridge.

Experience couldn't be claimed as an asset of this year's Viking swingers, as Dale Heineck returned as the only veteran. Enthusiasm, ability and good sportsmanship was the make-up.

Next year and for some years following, experience will play an important role. Tenth graders Ken Korde, Howard Paul and Dick Ruhland will provide a sturdy backbone for future teams.

Climaxing their season with a fourth place in the annual state wrestling tournament, Viking grapplers fell a little short of a .500 record but chalked up three more points than opponents. Winning six and losing seven, the matmen totaled 245 points against 242 for opponents.

New Coach Norman Dilley developed five grapplers into "placers" in the state tourney. Don Waldron took a championship title for the second straight year in the 112-pound class; Bob Painter, 138; Dale Heineck, 145, and Russell Rothwell, 165, grabbed seconds while Roland Aubuchon, 103, won a third.

Seven letter winners will provide the experience for next year's squad—Roland Aubuchon, Bob Crowley, Bob Painter, Russell Rothwell, Don Hanners, Sam Schneider and Bill Stutz.

Home-room Heroes and Heroines

Stirring competition within the school, intramurals fill the bill in before-school sports. The Merkels captured the co-ed volleyball tournament with these players: Taylor, Klasing, Finley, Powers, Kremer, Flori and Costello.

At the call of the referee's whistle, homeroom cage teams fought through the season to a final contest between Shipmans and Schills, won 28-16 by the Schills. Players, at left, were: Ruhland, Korando, McGuire; front: Braun, Velton, Gallagher.

Twenty-six teams vied for touch football honors, but from the start the Castagna homeroom showed championship quality and defeated the Shipmans, 7-6, in the finals to claim the laurels. The six-man team included: Dick and Bob Schill, Jackie Davis, Don Moore, Dale Heineck, and Don Waldron.

Richardson, Richter, Davis and Strosser round the corner as Miller looks on.

Counting 1, 2 and 3, swimmerettes dive off in the deep end for an up-the-pool sprint.

Ice-and-Snow Men and Mermaids

Whiz-z-ing around corners and spraying ice fragments from shining skate blades, Normandy's skating enthusiasts patronize the Winter Garden when ice on nearby lakes and ponds thaws out. A jolly, agile group they are indeed.

Kerplash! Starting in February, Normandy water nymphs swim once a week in modern Wilson Pool on Washington U.'s campus.

Tutored by experts, the girls soon learn to glide like fish instead of floundering like amateurs.

Junior G.A.A.'ers

Junior school girls' sports fans band together in the Junior G.A.A. to carry on their group activities.

Leading the G.A.A. for '46-'47 was Doris Blattner, president of the Junior high sports organization. Other officers were Betty Hundley, vice president; Shirley Shipherd, secretary, and Esther Terney, treasurer.

Each season had its own sport. Fall saw the girls striving for speed and accuracy on the hockey field. Then came basketball, which they played through the winter season with great skill. Volleyball tied the winter into the spring season, when they could get outside to play softball.

Each sport had its manager to record the points and help the officers and Miss Kissner keep things going smoothly.

At the close of the season points were tabulated and girls who had the required amount received the coveted letters. For higher point tabulation, they received chevrons.

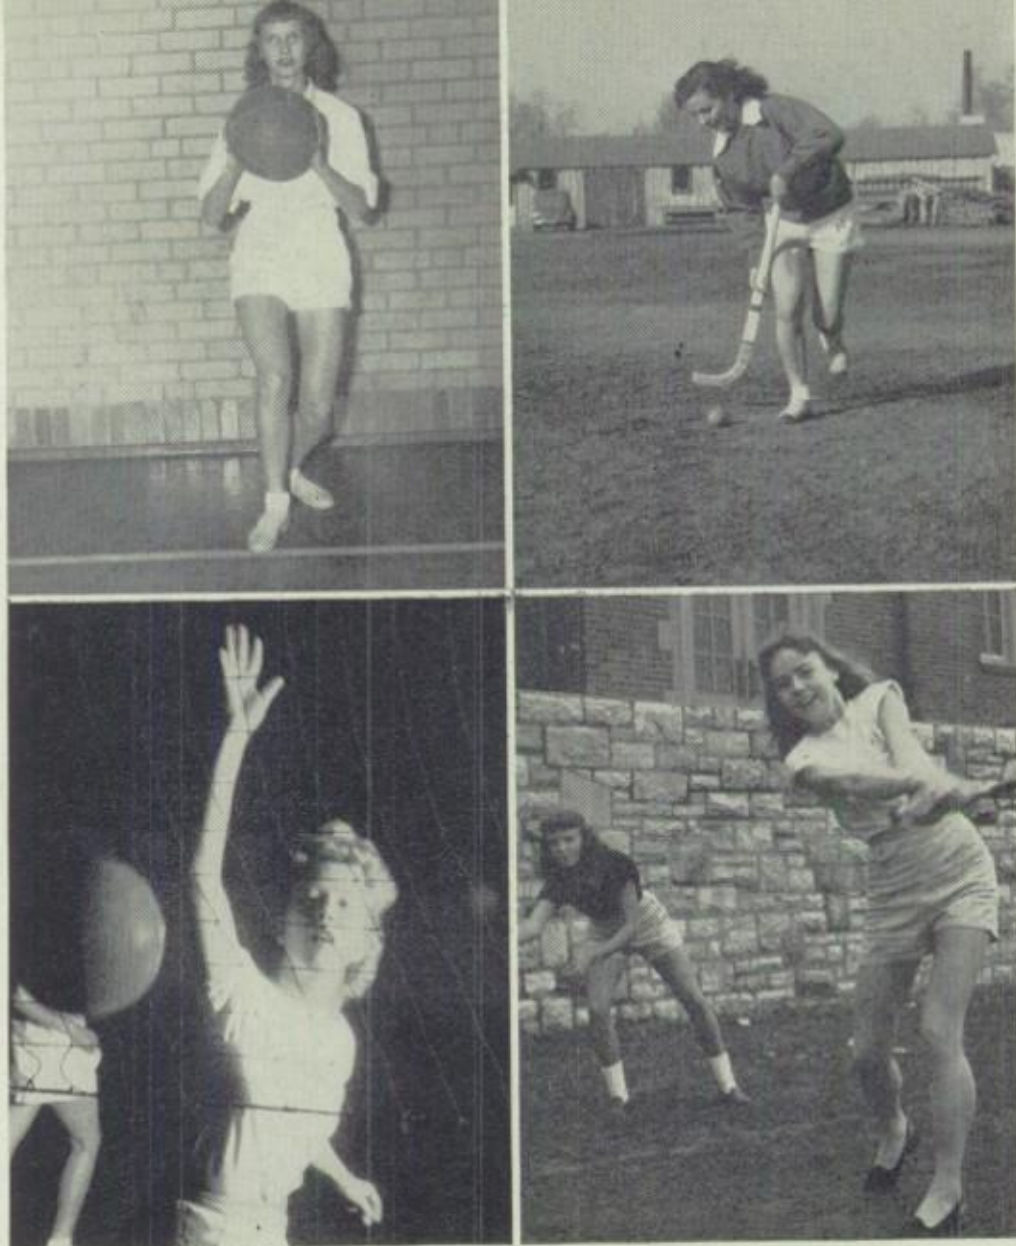

Backbone for Teams

Vikingettes are all-around girl athletes who earn their points by participating in several sports, generally after school. More girls made the necessary requirements this year than in any previous year.

How can you become a Vikingette? Just work harder in 1948 and if you make a Varsity team or if you receive your 1,000 points you will join this select group.

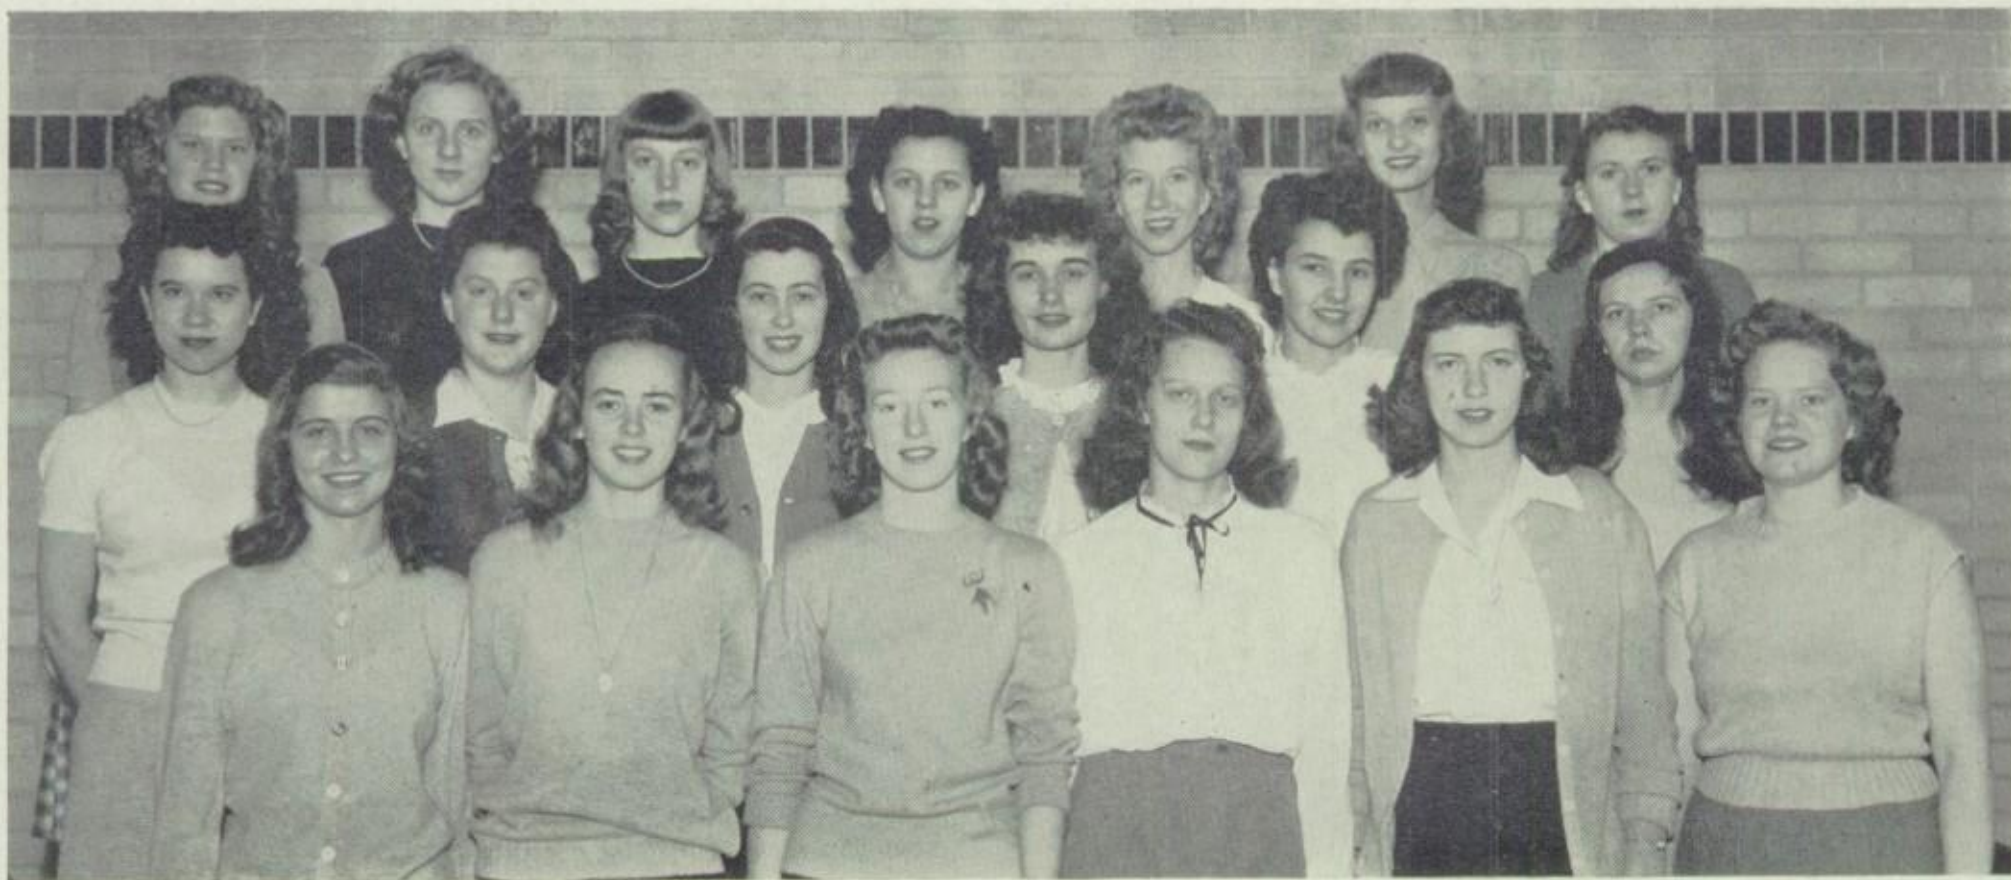

Initiation in January proved to be more fun than the frightened future members expected. Spring came along and brought a bang-up volleyball party. Officers who planned the activities were Elaine Forys, president; Norma Darby, vice president; Barbara Goode, secretary; and Lillian Bauman, treasurer.

Mrs. Helen Dunbar, girls' sports director, is counting on future Vikingettes to fill the place of seniors who are leaving, and is confident she won't be let down.

Each Vikingette officer excels at a different sport: Forys, basketball; Bauman, hockey; Darby, volleyball; Goode, baseball.

Stick-lers for the Game

Pep and determination combined with brain work sum up Normandy hockey enthusiasts, who proved this year that they had all the necessary qualifications.

Ninth and eleventh graders won all their games; tenth and twelfth graders had one defeat and one tie, respectively.

The Varsity, coached by Miss Mary Jane Welsch, Mrs. Helen Dunbar and Miss Doris Schoknecht, was undefeated this season.

Vivacious Volleyballers

"Jump much, much higher and practice that spiking," is a familiar cry on the volleyball court.

Tenth, eleventh and twelfth graders report an undefeated season; ninth graders won two and lost one of their three games.

Seventeen cream-of-the-croppers made the varsity team, which came through with an unblemished record.

Lady Caseys at Bat

Ending the sports season is softball, vigorously played by a large and enthusiastic group of girls. Lady Caseys at bat, they call themselves, seeing no reason why America's favorite sport should be a purely masculine prerogative.

This year the short season was curtailed even more by persistent rain that kept the girls indoors. When weather permitted, however, they were out on the field knocking base hits, trying for hot grounders and improving their playing skill under the tutelage of Miss Welsch and Mrs. Dunbar, coaches.

On Playday, May 17, at Washington University, Normandy's nine clashed with other girl teams from County schools, beating Clayton, 8-5, and Webster Groves, 9-3. An annual affair sponsored jointly by County schools, Playday creates wide enthusiasm among the girls.

Girls slide, too, as Ann Quermann gracefully demonstrates while Lois Diesel determinedly guards the base.

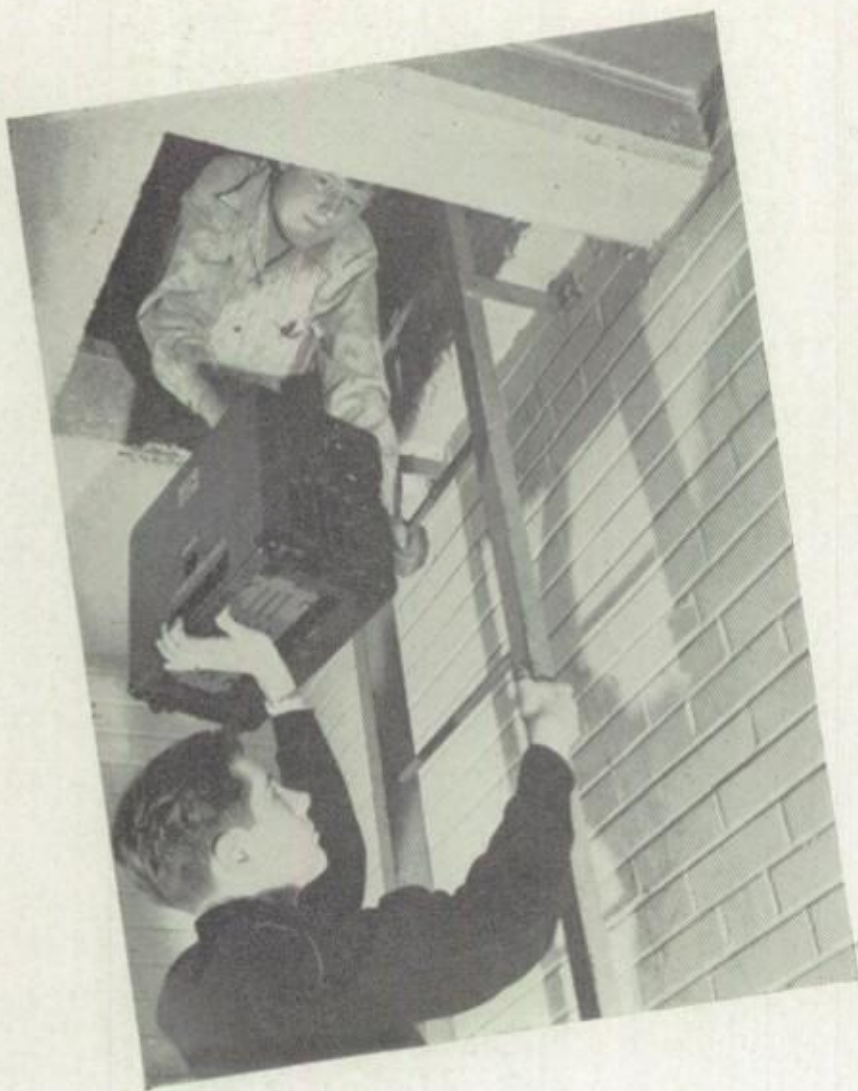

Other scheduled games remained to be played after Saga's final deadline. Managers for the year were: Ninth grade, Lorraine Frey; tenth, Frances Grbcich; eleventh, Gerry Bierman. Twelfth graders had not as yet made their choice.

School Citizens Exercise

Welcoming lyceum speaker in behalf of the assembly is Student Council President Joe Moore.

Exercising the principles of a democratic government in their school society, Senior Student Council members meet on Tuesday morning under the sponsorship of Mr. Walter Bergmann. The representatives are elected by the student body at the beginning of each school year.

Did you ever wonder who helps those students who stray from the beaten path? Composed of seven members who are selected from Student Council, the Student Court straightens out students' difficulties as cases are presented to it for consideration. Second offenders are few.

Something new has been added! For the first time the students can listen to their favorite records while eating lunch. The juke box, owned and operated by both Junior and Senior Councils, has been placed in the cafeteria for all to enjoy.

Mr. Bergmann commented that the officers are capable leaders—Joe Moore, president; Pat Price, vice-president; Elaine Forsys, secretary; and Joe Giebe, treasurer.

Democratic Rights

Mates keep the boats on their steady course as the Junior Student Council plots the map of activities for the Junior High School. The course for this year led students to be more conscious of their courtesy in manners and speech through a courtesy campaign in which a boy and girl in each homeroom were recognized as the most courteous people for each grade period.

If you happened to journey to a lyceum or Student Council dance you would find its leaders, Molly Price, president; Bob Donovan, vice president; Ed Ewald, secretary, and Vern Smith, treasurer, making arrangements to help sell cokes, take tickets or watch the juke box. The Council also sponsored a hobby show for junior students' second semester. Supervised by Miss Louise Schmucker, the members met every other Wednesday to check campus and cafeteria guards, help return the lost and found articles in the junior building, and discuss plans for the coming week.

Juke-box melodies please Junior Student Council members whose efforts helped place the box in the cafeteria.

Bearers of the Torch

Raised requirements this year made earning the "torch" pin of the Senior Honor Society a more difficult task and a greater honor than in years before. By popular Society student vote the minimum of 36 points was raised to 40 in the scholarship category; leaving 24 for citizenship, 20 for activity, and the remaining 16 to be garnered from a miscellaneous group of activities.

After final faculty judgment on candidates' fitness, the privileged few were initiated in May.

This year's officers were: Lois Diesel, president; Betty Zumbuhl, vice president; Marilyn Heid, secretary; Betty DeBruner, treasurer.

Election of officers is the first major activity of Senior Honor Society. Norma Darby presides at the blackboard.

Honor Society officers count points to determine eligibility of new members.

N as in Honor

"What does that silver N stand for?"

"Don't you know? Junior Honor Society," wearers proudly affirm.

Members must earn 75 points in three fields: scholarship, citizenship and activities. Points given for solid subjects count towards scholarship, in which 40 points must be secured. Candidates may claim 15 points for citizenship. The remaining 12 points may accumulate from activities of all types.

Saga Hails Mississippi

"Gotta date tonight?"

"Yes, with a Saga deadline," answers the tousle-haired staff writer, who finally, at the end of a long year, has satisfaction in beaming and saying, "Well, we made it."

After the editors selected Ol' Man River to roll through the 1947 Saga theme pages, printers and engravers were consulted, pictures were scheduled, and work progressed through the year to the frenzy before final press deadline.

Reminiscing on the more happy and joyful side of Saga life, we remember the Sadie Hawkins Dance and Cupid Cuddle, which added their touch of romanticism to yearbook work.

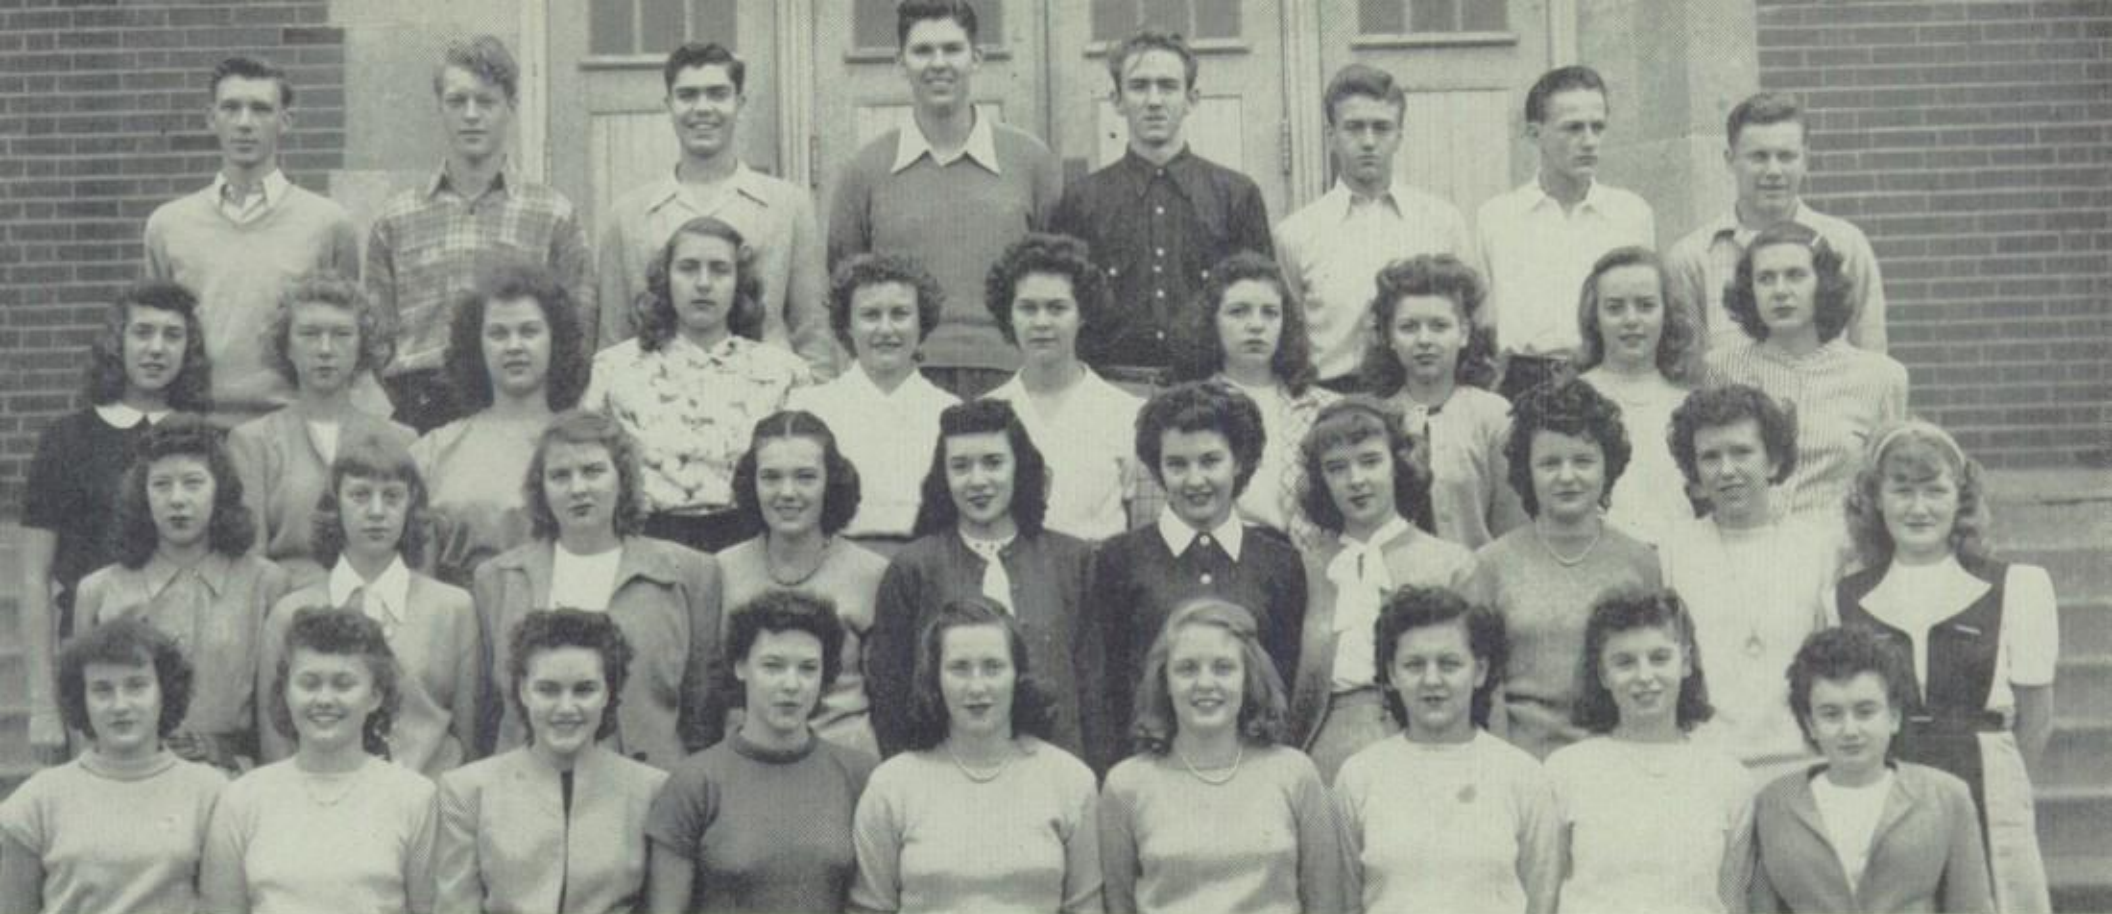

Juniors in training strove diligently and conscientiously to prove themselves worthy of either general or section editorships awarded to the most promising journalists for the next year.

And so, hats off to the editors and staff members, who worked so hard to make the '47 Saga a huge success.

Pacemakers Repeat

"Did you see that excellent book review in the last issue of the Courier?" "Yes! And weren't the sports write-ups good?"

Every other Tuesday Room 8G is hustling and bustling with activity. Students stream in and out constantly as work is completed. That's right! Normandy's famed paper, the Courier, has just come off the press. As fast as pages are folded, they are stuffed, counted, and distributed to the homerooms.

With second year journalism students as editors and co-editors and first year students as reporters, the Courier, sponsored by Mrs. Mary Still, has won the National Pacemaker Award for eight consecutive years.

Staged by the Courier staff, the annual St. Pat's dance brightens the spring calendar. Major school organizations nominate candidates and sell penny votes to elect their chosen lady Queen. Normandy students agree that the Courier and the St. Pat's dance are tops and can't be beat!

Work! Work! And more work! This is the pace the Senior Orchestra set for itself for '46 and '47! Top musicians have been chosen from this ace-high musical organization to represent Normandy in off-campus concerts. At home on the Hill, the orchestra provides entertainment at assemblies and Music Association concerts.

Although Normandy's orchestra is called a Senior organization there are many 9th, 10th and 11th grade students participating, making it an all-school organization.

Mr. Lawrence Guenther has been directing this orchestra for many years. Under his baton, players demonstrate that they can play any type of number, popular, light opera, or classic in the manner of Handel, Bach and Beethoven.

Work, Smooth Playing and Easy Listening

Contributing to the success of the May Fete the orchestra accompanied the dancing with the strains of Ferde Grofe's Mississippi Suite and played Showboat tunes as the Queen and her maids paraded in.

Second Music Association concert of the year was given entirely by the Senior Orchestra. They played selections from Rose Marie, Grieg's Last Spring and ended with the triumphant Marche Slav.

At the County Festival, judges marked score sheets with "good quality" and "fine interpretation" as orchestra members played the introduction to the third act of Lohengrin and the first and second movements of Handel's Sonata in F Major.

From 200 applicants, the orchestra's concertmistress, Louise Mahaffy, principal cellist Lora Rossel, and French horn player Bill Turner, were selected over others in many states to go to the Southwest Music Association conference in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Individuals represented in All-County Orchestra were Joe Labuta, first chair in cornet section; Lora Rossel, first chair, cello section; Louise Mahaffy, first chair, violin section.

Junior Classicists

Seventh, eighth, and ninth grade musicians of outstanding ability were selected as members of the combined Junior Orchestra this year. Much of the credit for its success goes to Mr. Lawrence Guenther, who has spent long hours of work with these future symphonic masters and mistresses so that they may reach their goal of Senior Orchestra membership.

They began their training by learning the fundamentals of coordination, intonation, and timing so that they could experience the satisfaction which came only from knowing they had done a commendable job.

The Junior Spring Concert climaxed a busy year for orchestra members. The group presented a program including Russian Chorale and Overture, Nonette Waltz, and King's Highway Overture.

A dreamy melody played on her violin gives first violinist Carol Vonckx that wistful, far-away look.

Strike 'em Up

With the Senior Band as their goal, the Junior Band musicians "play" their way through the year, always striving to reach the top.

Their work individually and sectionally teaches them the importance of teamwork and coordination in music. These pupils are first taught to be proficient in the playing of their instruments and then to blend their separate talents to produce a well-balanced tone.

Taking part in the annual Spring Concert, the Junior Band played the Mystic Knights Overture, by R. E. Hildreth, and Harold Bennett's Proclar March, Gyral, and a novelty, Put and Take.

"Practice makes perfect" may well be their motto and this they will follow through their musical lives.

Little boy beats big drum! All Tony Morak needs is Mr. Gould's nod to let 'er boom.

Young Note-ables

After being organized for two years, the Junior Mixed Chorus has gained prominence at Normandy under the co-direction of Mrs. Mildred Fishback and Mrs. Virginia Huff.

This year the group presented a sparkling operetta, "The Galloping Ghost," and participated in the Spring Festival, singing Jacob's Ladder and Row, Row, Row.

Going Up the Scale

Tenth graders who like singing may join the Tenth Grade Mixed Chorus and sing with classmates second hour of the day. They constitute a group preliminary to membership in the Senior Mixed Chorus.

Mrs. Franklin, director, commented that they are one of the most improved groups in the school.

Ninth Grade Warblers Attain Excellence

Organized at mid-year to prepare for positions in advanced singing groups, talented freshmen of the Ninth Grade Mixed Chorus sang lustily second semester.

Climaxing their achievements in this short time, they participated in the Music Festival at University City and the Junior Spring Concert, singing Fred Waring's well-known arrangement of Now the Day Is Over and a sea chanty, High Barbary.

Aim of the Ninth Grade Girls' Glee Club is to establish a repertoire of songs for self-enjoyment. They sing for thrill of singing together and their purpose is pleasure.

Ninth grade girls highlighted their musical year with the annual Junior Spring Concert, singing Crueger's Now Thank We All Our God, Indian Dawn by Zamecnik, and a folk tune, Czecho-Slovakian Dance.

From their smiles, we judge the girls are singing "Smiling Dawn" with appropriate expression.

Stout-hearted Men

"Oh! what handsome fellows and what voices!" Yes, the Boys' Glee Club has done it again.

It seems director Mr. Megahan couldn't produce a better group of tenors, basses and baritones. They must be good or else they wouldn't have been chosen to give assemblies, concerts and festivals.

We must give the boys credit, for their success wouldn't be possible if they didn't cooperate and work hard together. That they've done every Wednesday and Friday morning in Room 105, working over "Invictus," "Water Boy" and other favorites for male voices.

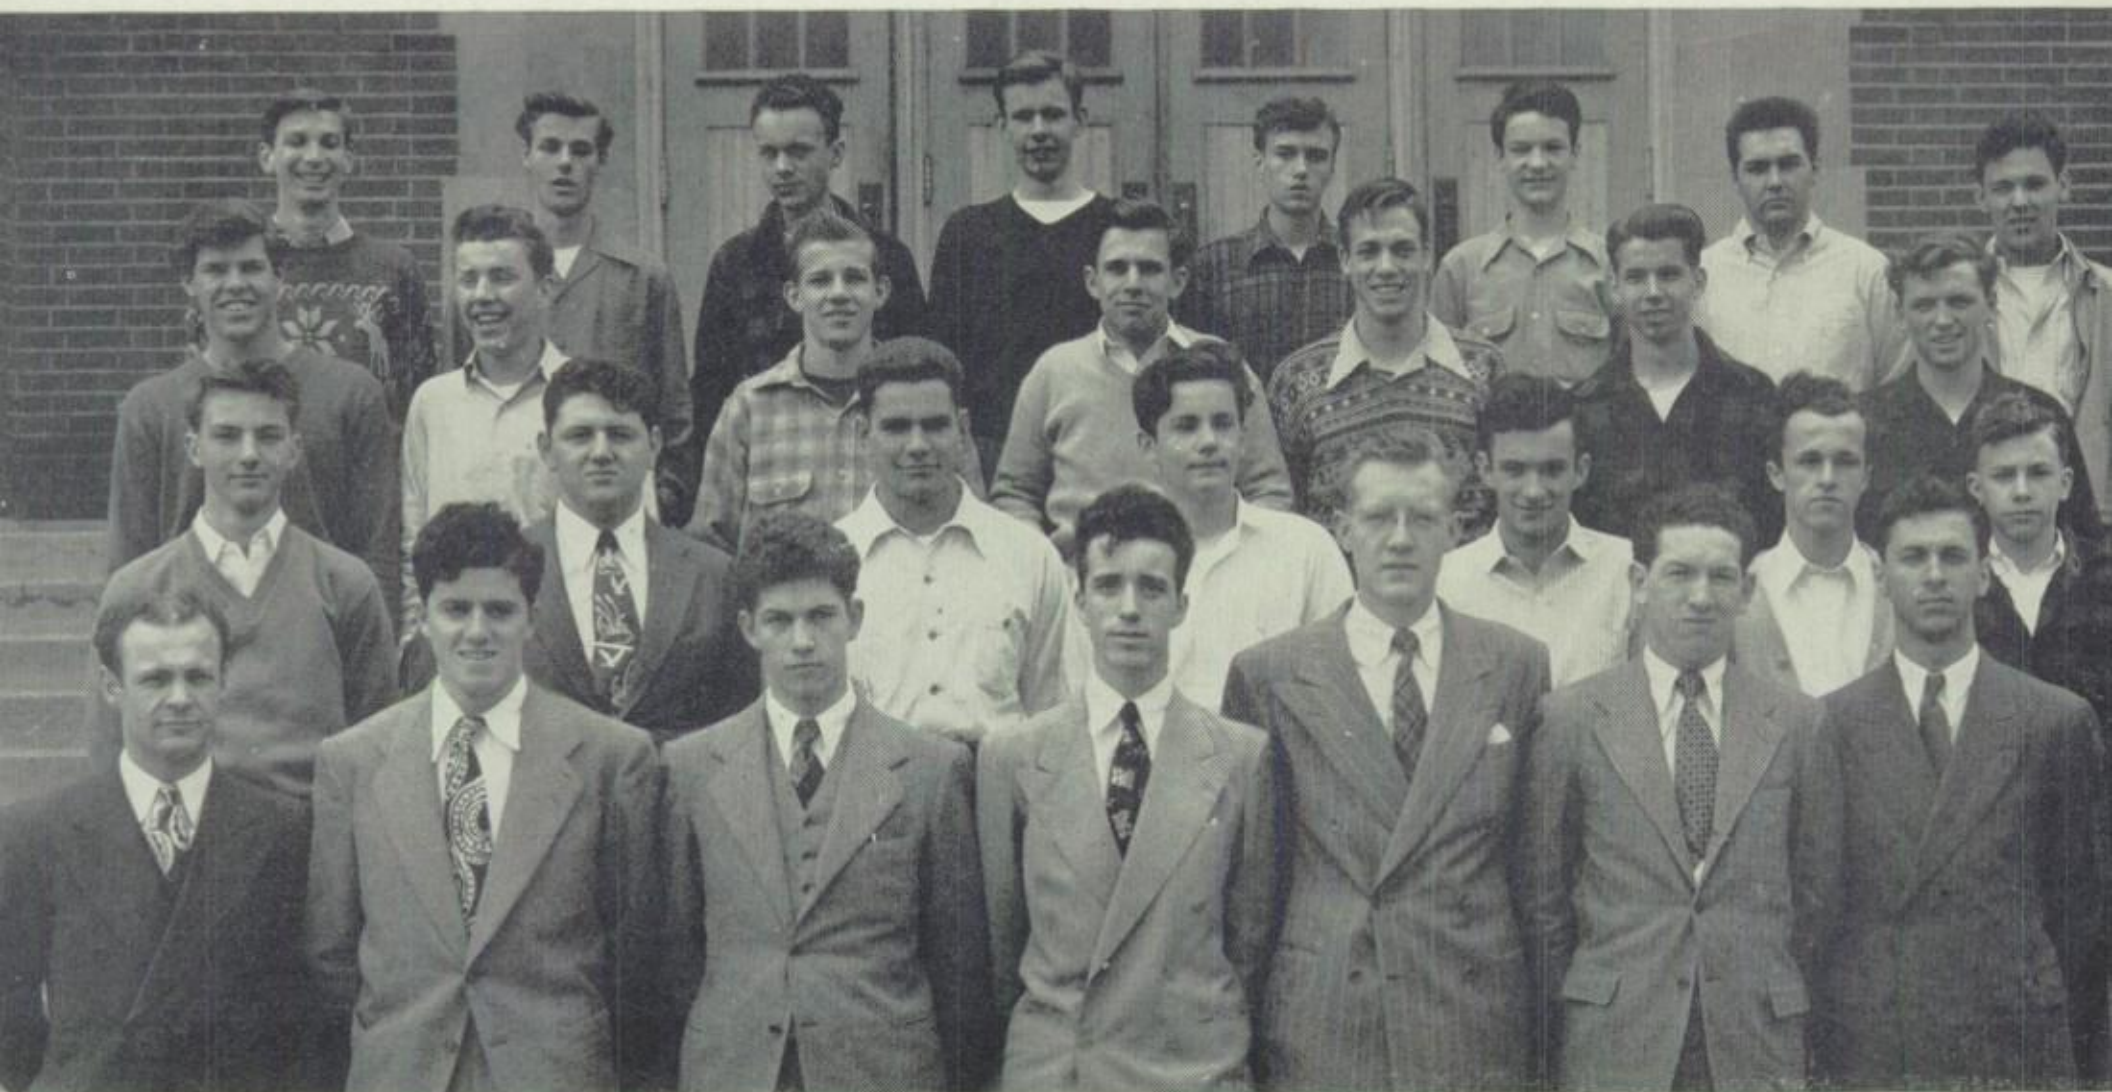

Laughing Songsters

Slow and Fast! Soft and Loud! As you like it, the Girls' Glee Club can sing it. Directed by Mrs. Mary Franklin, the girls participated in concerts, assemblies, the music festival, and sang Christmas music at the Yuletide season.

Short or tall, glee-clubbers looked very attractive in their white blouses and black skirts.

These girls have been praised not only for their great singing, but also for phrasing, clear tones, and the willingness to practice before school, or any time they are called for a practice.

"Smiling Dawn," "Pale Moon," and "Down in the Flowery Vale" are favorite numbers.

Young M

Pointing their slides together, trombonists ta-ra-ra in unison.

And the band played on! Not content with bringing the benefits of a musical education to Normandy boys and girls, the band participated in parades, contests, music festivals, and special programs, each time ringing up a creditable performance.

Working together in close co-operation, the student members and Mr. Edwin Gould, their accomplished director, provided the student body with an improved organization worthy of note.

Though the group is known as the Senior Band, there are many junior school pupils holding important positions in it. This is an indication that band membership is based primarily on ability and musicianship.

Students always hurried to their seats on assembly day when they heard the Senior Band warming up, for nothing is more exciting than a good band playing a stirring march such as we heard at pep assemblies and football games, speeding the Vikings on to victory. The baton twirlers, brightly clad in their red-and-white suits and plumed hats, added an extra incentive for close attention to the program.

More interest in classical music was aroused in the band this year when it was invited to play at the fourth Music Association concert. Senior and Junior Bands combined their talents to make this a memorable program. Dressed in their traditional navy blue coats and white pants, the band gave a program of stirring marches and symphonic numbers including March Heroic, King Orry Rhapsody, and the last movement of Saint-Saens' First Symphony.

Another thrill of the winter season was the march with dozens of other bands in a huge parade and demonstration for General Eisenhower on his visit to St. Louis.

Good intonation, interpretation, and intensive practice put a group on top, and that is just the height to which the Senior Band rose.

Star trumpeter Joe Labuta girds his lip for a high one during a jam session as Costantinou and Major play along.

Anything from the exciting rhythm of "Temptation" to "I'll See You in My Dreams" is right down the line of these versatile Norsemen. This year's all-school swing band is the best heard yet at Normandy, according to the students and Mr. L. W. Guenther, director.

Contributing to the Music Association's series of programs, they produced a wide variety of selections. Their version of "American Patrol" was a particular favorite with audiences.

Norsemen assemblies were popular with the students, many of whom ganged up outside the bandroom to listen to early morning rehearsals.

It's during these homeroom rehearsals that the cats really let go with the improvising. A solid boogie beat rapped out by the pianist sets the pace as trumpet and trombone pick up a melody, playing around with it while the drummer boy works out his own fancy combinations in percussion rhythms. Far-away, out-of-this-world expressions, swaying bodies, and tapping feet accompany all jam sessions.

Devotion to their art and continued practice account for their excellence.

Senior Melodists

Strains of melody issuing from room 107C on Mondays and Wednesdays, indicate that the Senior Mixed Chorus is bending to the baton of Director Don Megahan.

Participating in the Christmas program, the chorus sang "Birthday of a King," and followed it up with the lively, colorful "Twas the Night Before Christmas," a novel arrangement by Fred Waring.

From the one-hundred-twenty Mixed Chorus members, twenty joined the All-County Chorus. Their greatest thrill came when they sang two numbers with the St. Louis Symphony.

Painstaking practice ensued to make the Spring Concert and Spring Festival a huge success. Many rehearsals were required to iron out all the difficult passages in "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," but after their hard work the singers did a marvelous job.

Snapped on stairway in the main building are eleven carolers ready to go forth into the night and spread good tidings of great joy.

Christian Followers

Paul Mueller and Joe Moore sell Bill Smith a humorous idea for a forthcoming Hi-Y program.

"I hereby resolve to strive to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Climaxing the initiation ceremony, pledges solemnly promise to live up to Hi-Y standards.

Jointly working, the three chapters, Alpha, Beta, and Gamma, shared honors for two successful dances and other projects. Poor people in need of food at Christmas and the World Service campaign benefited by their combined efforts.

Assisting the Alpha's sponsor, Mr. William Christian, were the officers: president, Joe Moore; vice president, Norman Engelbrecht; secretary, Dewey Millay; and treasurer, Jim Frankenberger.

The Beta Chapter was guided by Mr. Felix Serafini and officers: president, Bill Smith; vice president, Floyd McCorkle; secretary, Duane Richars; and treasurer, Dale Heineck.

President Paul Mueller, vice president Jim Baldwin, secretary Bob Gore, treasurer Ray Thiele and sponsor Mr. Robert Rupp directed the Gammas through another successful year.

During the basketball season the Alphas and the Betas entered the annual Pine Street Y basketball tournament. Both teams did very nicely until the former champion Alpha team was defeated in the quarter-finals by the Betas. The Betas, with high hopes, were later defeated in the final game by Vashon.

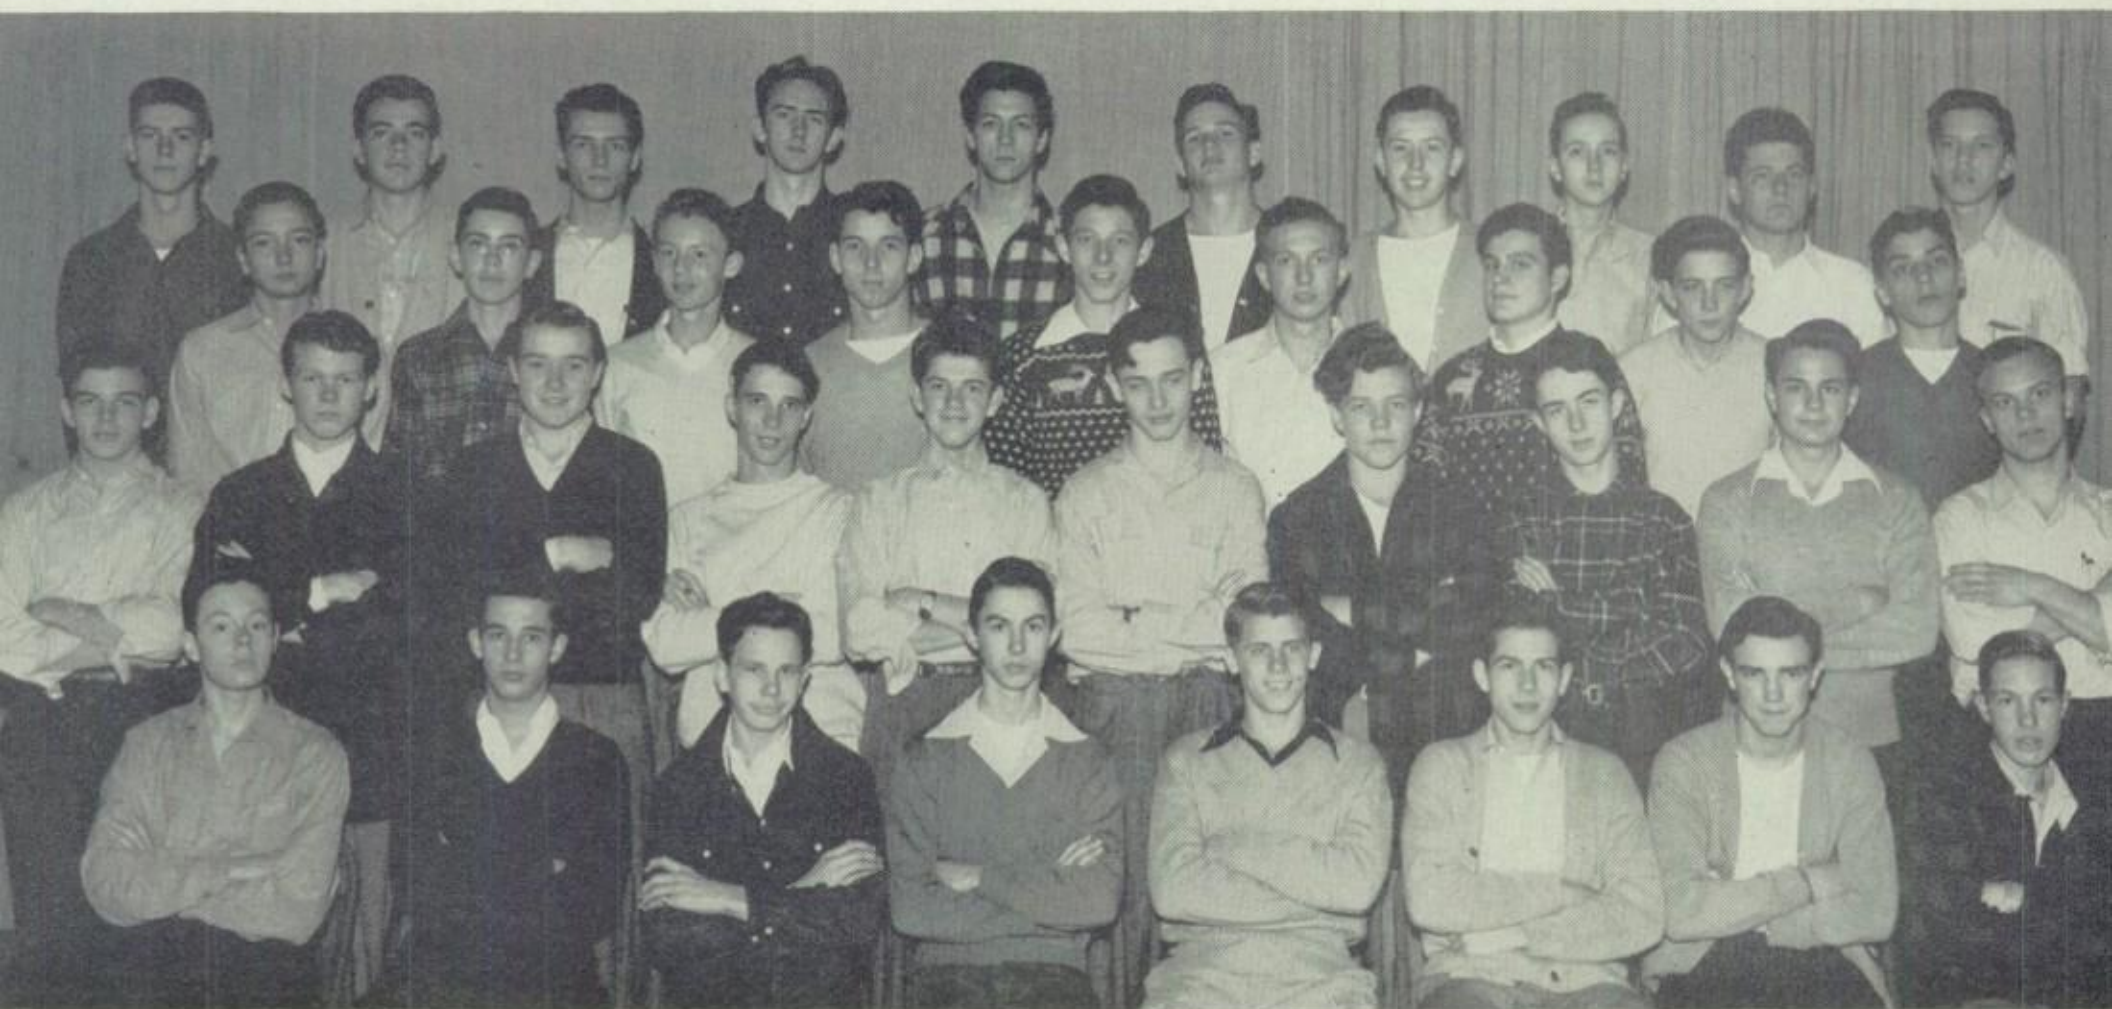

In the course of the year the boys were privileged to hear many fine speakers and saw a number of movies. They also had several bang-up parties just for members.

"This year was one of the best years our Hi-Y's have seen," stated Mr. Christian, "and the three hard working presidents, Joe Moore, Bill Smith, and Paul Mueller deserve much of this credit. We felt honored that Joe was an officer in the District Hi-Y."

Workers for World Fellowship

Tri-Y presidents Pat Price, Barbara Goode and June Marske look over a proposed list of items for shipment overseas.

Tri-Y girls again fulfilled their purpose to find and give the best. At Christmas they contributed baskets containing food and toys to needy families. Lambda Mu girls sent warm flannel clothing overseas to foreign countries to help ease the serious clothing shortage abroad. Each chapter contributed a generous amount to the World Fellowship Fund. Theta Beta's donation was earned by selling cokes at basketball games.

Code of the Tri-Y is to be gracious in manner, impartial in judgment, ready for service, loyal to friends, reaching toward the best, earnest in purpose, seeing the beautiful, eager for knowledge, reverent to God, victorious over self, ever dependable and sincere at all times.

Members meet bi-weekly on Wednesday nights. Lively entertainment consists of skits, speeches, games, projects and song-fests. Each chapter dram-

Corridor Sentinels

"No running in the halls, please! Do you have a pass slip?"

Such are typical remarks of the sentinels of the corridors. Stationed strategically throughout the entire school, these selected students enforce the necessary school rules of passage throughout the halls.

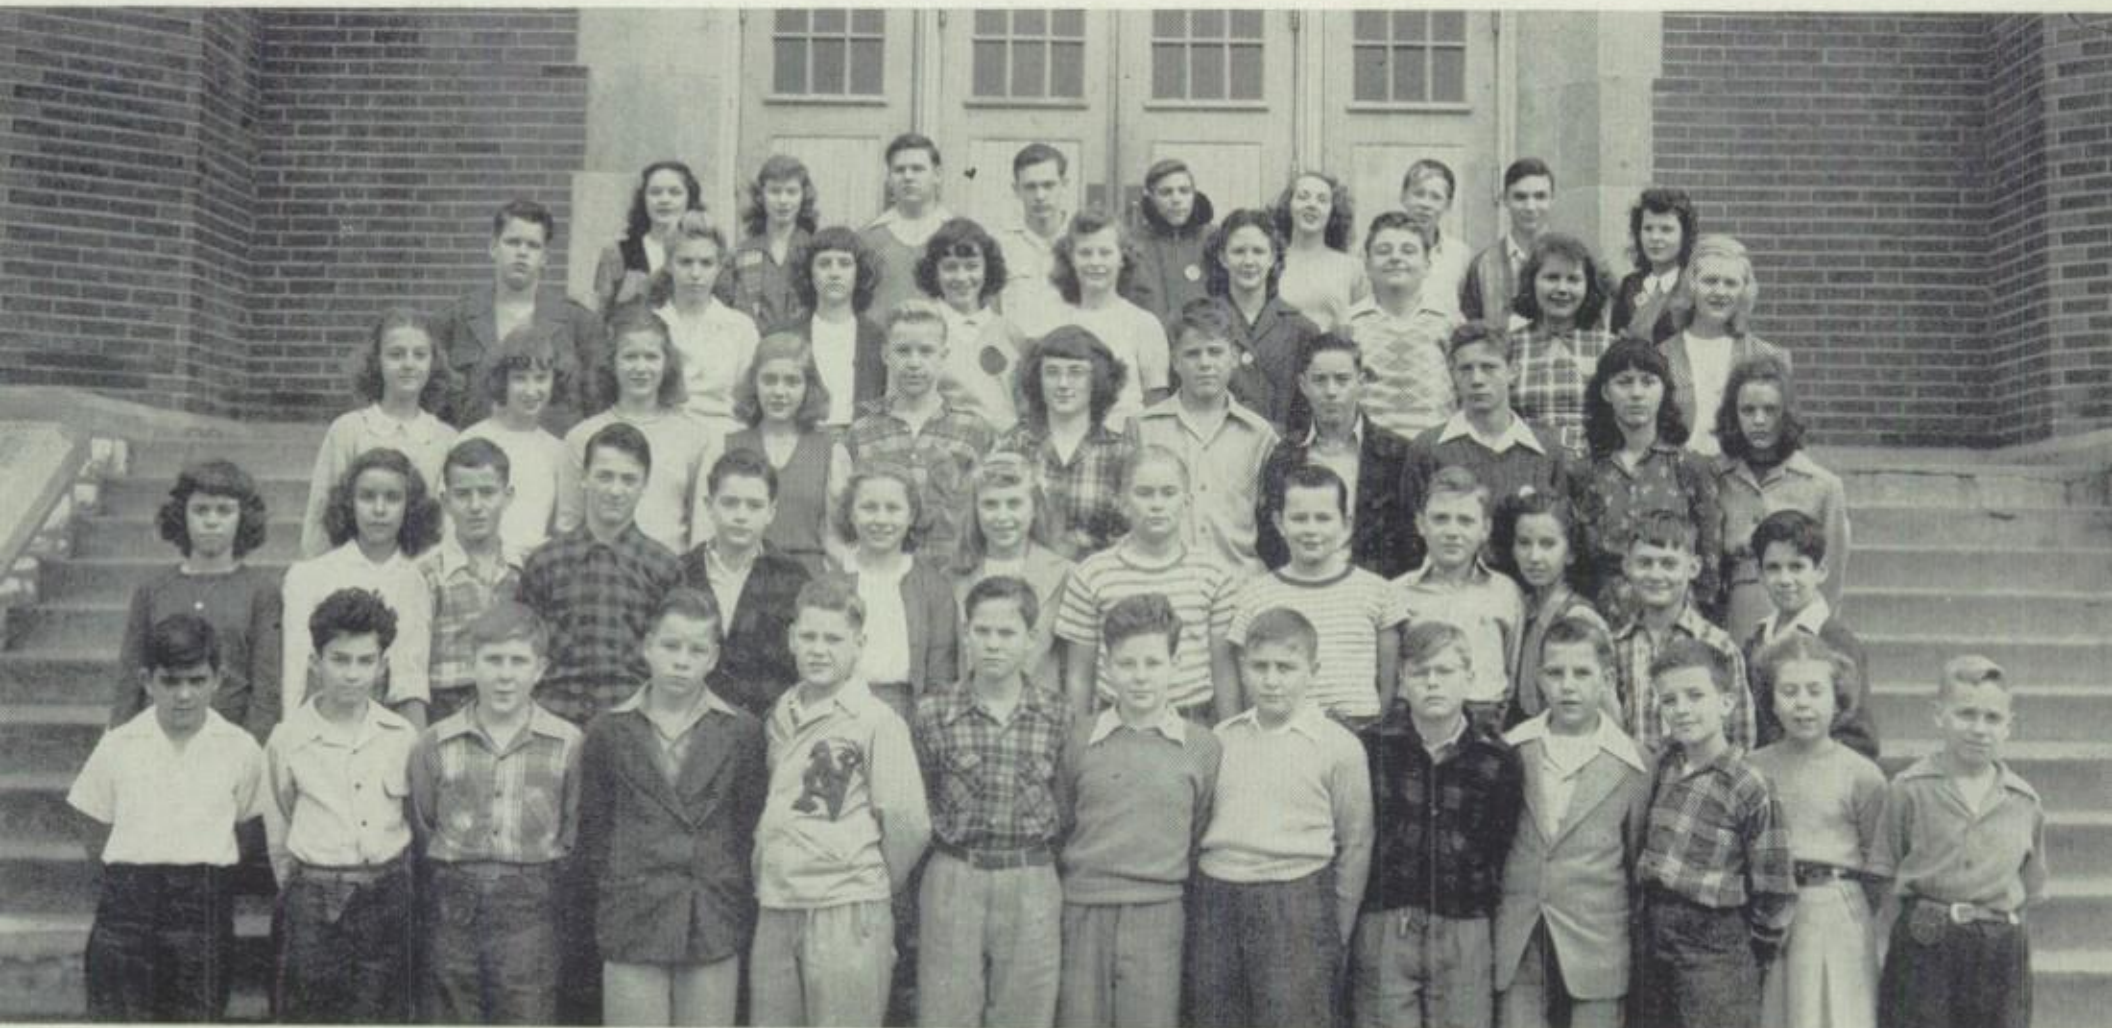

To maintain order, eliminate any unruly conduct and encourage good school citizenship are the chief duties of the corridor officers, who work before school and between periods, and the hall guards, who keep order during class periods. Offenders against Normandy's simple, logical rules of behavior are intercepted by a C. O. and misdemeanors are pointed out in a friendly, courteous way.

Guided by Mr. Robert C. Rupp in the senior school, and Mrs. Louise Cook and Mr. Gunnell in the junior school, the corridor officers and hall guards are selected for their dependability, citizenship, good behavior and ability to get along well with all types of people.

Adding Extra Steam

"Tickets, please." Allen McDaniel, D. O. student, handles admissions at the St. Louis Theater.

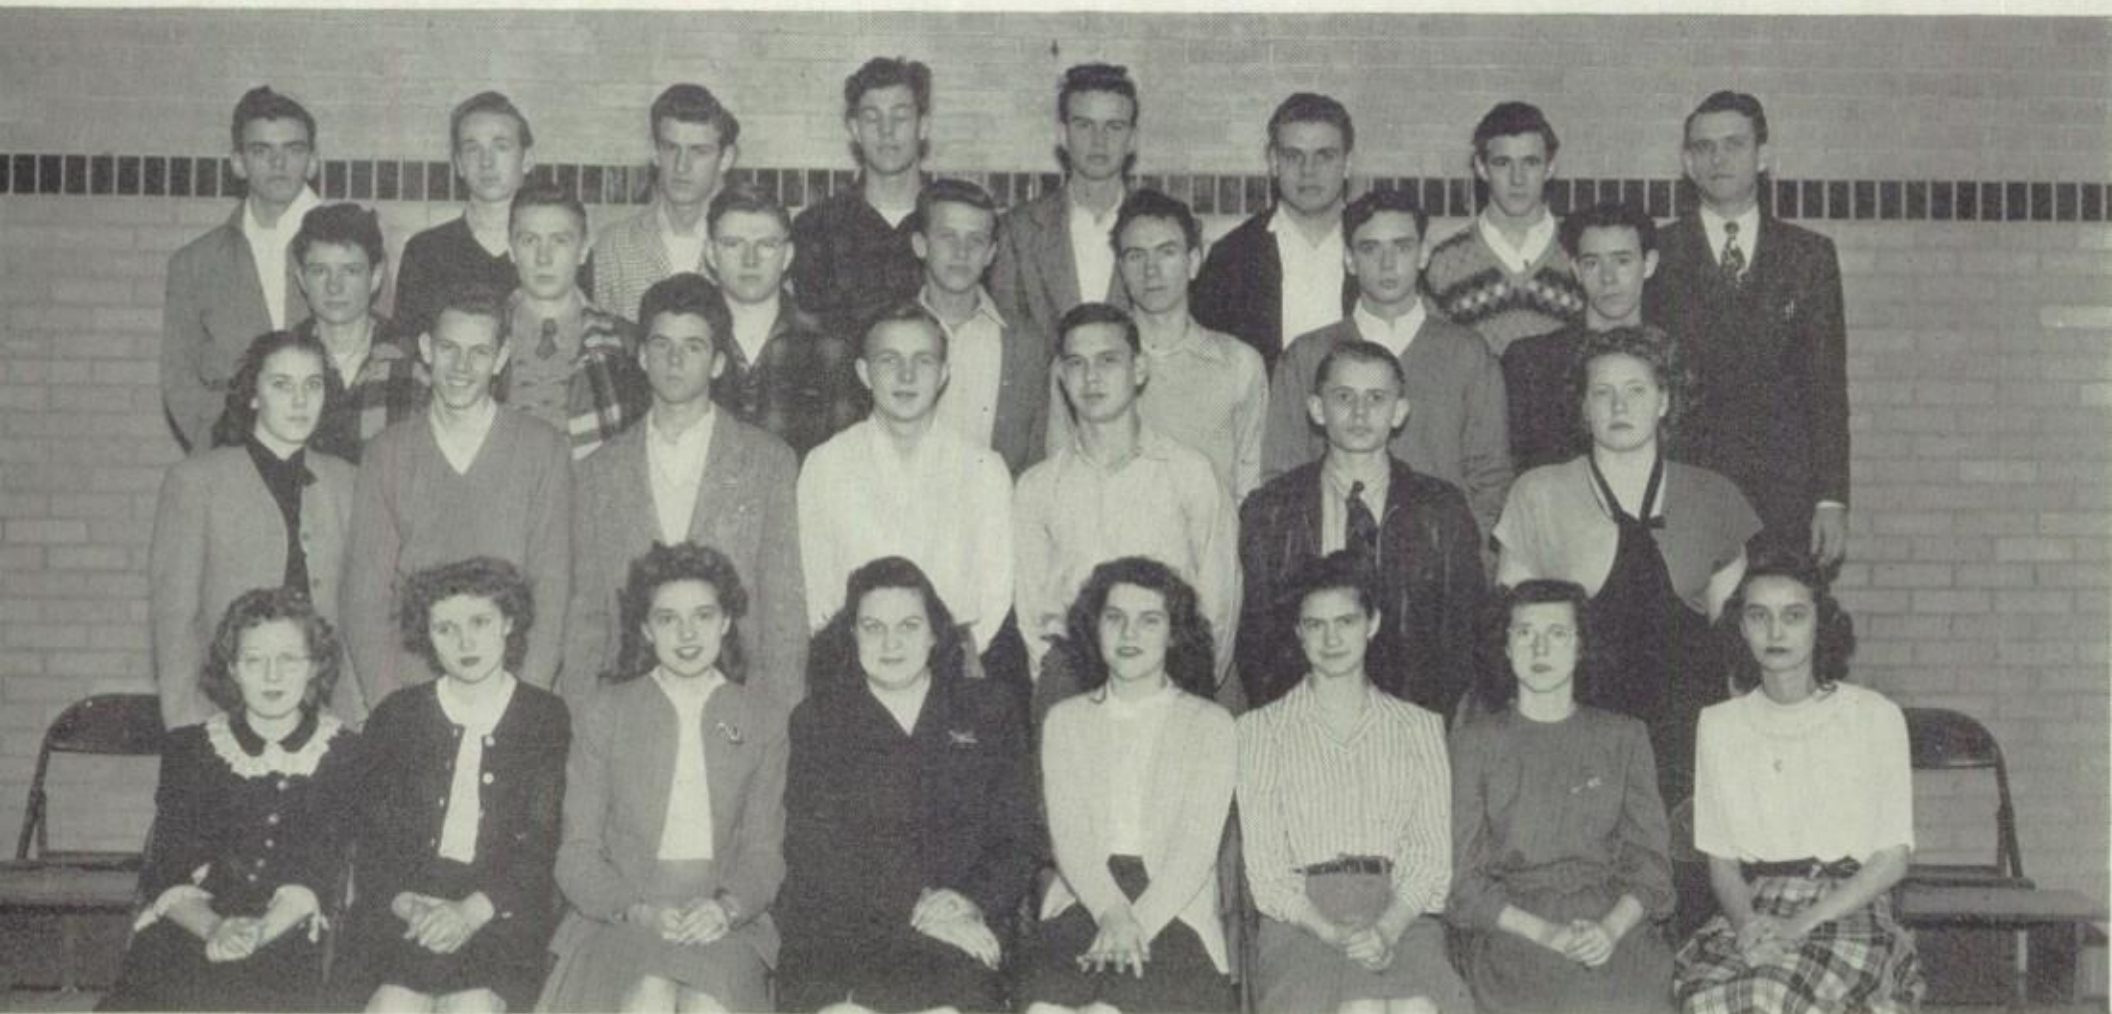

Idle! Definitely not! Students who participate in the Diversified Occupations program are kept busy every minute. These ambitious D. O. workers attend classes the first three hours of the day and work at regular jobs in the afternoon. They receive full credit for their work on the job and can complete their high school education in the usual four years. Under the guidance of Mr. Emil Rohlfs, these boys and girls acquire jobs that not only give them valuable on-the-job training but also enable them to earn while they learn.

Mr. Rohlfs is always busy watching his flock, finding satisfactory jobs for the new D. O. students and aiding the progress of the older members.

Boys may be employed as mechanics, salesmen, or factory workers, while many of the girls prefer commercial work or clerking. The fields, however, are not limited. Mr. Rohlfs is anxious to place students in any field that interests them. Many go direct into full-time employment following graduation.

"Gosh, do you mean it? I made it?" Successful nominees rejoice when school publications sponsors inform the fortunate young journalists that they will soon be wearing the key-shaped pins that signify membership in Quill and Scroll, local chapter of the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists.

Qualifications to be met by those who aspire to Quill and Scroll are rigid. A high level of scholarship must be maintained in all subjects and candidates must show ability in journalistic achievements as well. Points may be acquired by writing news stories, editorials, write-ups, or by contracting advertising.

Lights, silence, action!

Excitement spread through the May Fete audience who gathered to board the S. S. Normandy on its imaginary journey down the Mississippi and to witness the coronation of the 1947 Saga Queen. Our steamboat pulled out from its harbor and navigated southward through the farmlands of Iowa, where boys and girls clad in jeans and checked gingham swirled to the tune of a barn dance.

Farther down the mighty Mississippi the beat of drums foretold that our boat was nearing Indian territory.

We halted to see the execution of the peace dance to the sun goddess.

Stopping next at Hannibal, we saw Mark Twain's immortal story, Huckleberry Finn, retold by dancers who luxuriously spent their day fishing on the levee.

Mardi-Gras Magic

When the boat had once more resumed full speed and passengers settled back in deck chairs, they were lulled by the sad voice of a Creole woman singing to her children of the Negro's woes. Tired Creole mammies swayed on the river bank watching three children who hung to their mother for security as they searched for truth.

An arrow flew past the helm of the boat as it reached the wooded lands of the Mississippi. Here dancers clad in green and brown executed forceful techniques to capture their game in the hunter's dance.

At New Orleans we moored, and amid the blare of trumpets welcomed aboard Jean Flori, 1947 Saga Queen of Love and Beauty, escorted by Joe Moore, most popular boy in the Senior Class, and attended by maids and escorts from all grades.

Following the Queen's coronation, Mardi Gras celebration was presented for the entertainment of the court. Streamers filled the air, as dancers clad in every hue of the rainbow whirled through the streets of New Orleans.

To conclude the festivities the new Queen led her court in a triumphal parade and departed until the next May Fete rolls around.

Buffoonery in bright colors amuses onlookers at height of the Mardi Gras revels.

Dance composition in tones of gray and deep blue expresses Creole pathos.

kicking the extra point, the 7-point margin remained until the end of the game.

NORMANDY 26—KIRKWOOD 0

Winning the toss, the Vikings chose to kick with the wind against their backs. The Kirkwood lads lost the ball after a futile attempt to "buck" the Viking forward line. Plunging over his own left guard for a gain of 6 yards, "Pinky" Ries shifted the Viking juggernaut into high gear.

However, the attack was stopped 10 yards short of pay dirt, in the form of a fumble, and the Kirkwood boys punted themselves out of danger.

The early minutes of the second quarter found the Vikings again knocking at the door of glory. Pulverizing fullback "Pinky" Ries forged his way through the opposition to score, but Dave Klasing's attempted conversion failed.

Knute Lorenz's intercepted pass, and a fine run by Dick Bokamper set the stage for the second Viking tally. In the closing seconds of the first half, Ries was unable to spot his pass receiver and elected to skirt his right for his sixth touchdown of the season; this time Klasing made good.

Viking regulars did not play long into the 3rd quarter before they were replaced by the strong reserves. Running, blocking, and fighting hard, they soon found the Pioneers' weak spots. Halfback Jim Russell scampered 20 yards for the third touchdown. Late in the same period, scatback Bernie Waters, behind beautiful blocking, crossed the end stripe, scoring the final tally.

NORMANDY 20—WEBSTER 0

Determination to upset the Vikings was the driving force behind Webster, and it wasn't until late in the second quarter that the Red and Green could shake it off.

The Statesmen ruled the first quarter and their five-man line baffled the Vikings throughout the first half; only their own fumble stopped a possible touchdown drive.

Bob Ries, with little blocking, pushed over a tally before the half ended, but Klasing's kick was wide.

A sparkling contrast to the first half started the second; both offense and defense shone as "Pinky" tucked 40 yards behind him, scoring Webster's second headache. Dave Klasing followed with a good conversion.

The pigskin then sprouted red and green wings and the aerial attack brought the Vikings to the opponents' goal line once more. Klasing chucked it over and booted an additional marker, polishing off a brilliant 20-0 score.

NORMANDY 13—McBRIDE 7

Wild, surging fans jam-packed the Vikings' field to witness this tense, action-filled fracas.

Underdogged McBride, out to revenge their 14-0 setback of last year, bounced back after a string of four defeats to give the Red and Green a scare.

Bob Ries chalked up the lone first-half tally, plowing six yards off his left tackle in the first period. Klasing's extra point kick was blocked.

In the middle of the third period, George Houseman, Colonnader halfback, crashed his own right tackle and raced 50 yards to score. Their extra point placement edged a one-point margin over the local boys which made them the first team to lead and score against the Vikings.

Still fighting for an unblemished record, the Red and Green gridmen turned the tables late in the fourth quarter with a spectacular play. End Doug Finley pulled out of his position, took the ball from quarterback Denny Gallagher, and flung a high, wobbly pass into the eager arms of Bob Ries, who scampered ten yards to turn a defeat into a 13-7 triumph.

NORMANDY 6—U. CITY 7

Postponed on Friday because of rain, the U. City-Normandy contest attracted a large crowd on muddy Monday night. The fans saw the Indians

State tournament. A scrappy Versailles team had different ideas, and in the semi-finals turned back the Red and Green by two points. The Vikings refused to give up and captured the third place title.

A streak of 18 straight helped the Riegertmen to rack up a season's record of 28 wins against only four setbacks.

Always a big part of the cage season, the annual Christmas tournament saw the Viking quintet conquer a second place in the Red division, losing to Beaumont in the New Year's Eve finals.

Another tournament disappointment was a trip to the Springfield tourney, where the Red and Green were stopped by School of the Osage in the opening rounds.

Individual honors were plentiful. Doug Finley, leading Viking scorer with a season total of 413 points, won a forward spot in the all-state team and repeated his last year's all-district rating. Captain Bob "Pinky" Ries captured a berth at guard on the all-state and all-district second teams, while Dale "Ox" Portmann received an honorable mention in the all-district selections.

out-score but not out-play the Vikings, who suffered their first setback.

Taking a long kickoff deep in their territory, the favored Red and Green gradually moved the pigskin to the Indians' 20-yard line, but a costly fumble blacked out the Vikings' first quarter attack.

In the second period a dark cloud settled over the local boys. Dick Cone, U. City scatback, received a Klasing punt and cut loose with a paralyzing 80-yard run-back to score; the perfect conversion set the Vikings back 7 points.

Red and Green staged a comeback in the third quarter but could only squeeze out 6 markers. Klasing tossed a high looper to Clark, who strided 20 yards for a TD. A bad extra point kick eventually spelled defeat for the Vikings.

In the last seven minutes, Normandy's eleven rose again, Don Tracy being the main cog in bringing the ball to the Indians' 2-yard line. With 30 seconds left a penalty for too many time-outs retreated the pigskin to the 7-yard line. U. City then intercepted Ries' pass and the game ended smiling at the Black and Gold, 7-6.

NORMANDY 18—RITENOUR 9

Continuing their winning streak where they left off before the U. City game, the Vikings trimmed Ritenour, 18-9.

Red and Green materialized late in the first quarter on a long pass from Klasing to Finley, but with pulverizing plunges by their star fullback, Gerald Nordman, the Huskies quickly changed the score to 6-6.

Costly fumbles quelled the Vikings' attack and the Orange and Black spurted ahead with a beautiful 30-yard field goal.

In the tense, fading minutes of the first half Dave Klasing threw four perfect passes, the last into the arms of Bill Clark, sending the Red and Green ahead, 12-9.

Ritenour had seen the last of their opponents' goal line, but Nordman kept the Vikings on their toes continually. The third tally came on another pass from Klasing to Finley, completing the deadly aerial attack of the Vikings. Final score, 18-9.

NORMANDY 20—MAPLEWOOD 6

On a dreary, rainy night the Vikings journeyed to Maplewood.

As the Shipherdmen were turned away from a possible score by a 15-yard holding penalty and a fumble late in the first quarter, the night seemed even more dreary for the local boys.

Despite rain, the second half was filled with scoring. The Blue Devils tallied first but missed the extra point. Then the Vikings cut loose: Bill Clark scored for the Red and Green on a pass in the third period and Don Tracy followed with two more TD's in the fourth quarter. Bob "Pinky" Ries converted two of three extra points.
